NEBRASKA SPELLS "SPORTSMANSHIP"

The University of Nebraska is known and respected all over the nation for its red-attired fans, as well as its football teams.

Nebraska fans also have a nation-wide reputation for good sportsmanship, at home and away.

"Big League"—that's the way Nebraska teams and fans have acquitted themselves in past seasons, and that's the same goal for 1976.

The University of Nebraska urges all 1976 fans to continue this fine tradition of sportsmanship by extending courtesy to the visiting teams and officials.

All of us on the Cornhusker Staff salute our fans as the greatest in the nation and thank you for your support and sportsmanship.

Yours for Nebraska,

Bob Devaney

Huskers and Cowboys Ready For Another Tough One

By DON BRYANT
Sports Information Director

Hang on to your hats, because when Tom Osborne's Nebraska Cornhuskers meet Jim Stanley's Oklahoma State Cowboys, almost anything can happen, and it usually does.

Osborne has a 2-0-1 mark against the 'Pokes and all three games have produced some of the most exciting Big 8 college football ever played.

Take 1973 for example, when the Huskers and O-State played to a 17-17 tie at Stillwater. Late in the fourth quarter, with the score 17-17, Nebraska had marched to the Cowboy six inch line and was faced with a fourth down. Going for the score, full-back Tony Davis was stopped just short of the goal and the Cornhuskers attempt failed. But the game was far from over.

Because the Cowboys broke out of the hole on a 47-yard run by quarterback Brent Blackman and had a shot at a field goal.

But on the next play, Blackman was thrown for a six-yard loss by defensive end Steve Manstedt to preserve the tie.

Nebraska's 7-3 win over Oklahoma State in 1974 at Lincoln was another NU-OSU classic. The Huskers only score came in the third quarter on a Davis run and from then on, the Black Shirts held the limelight.

Individually, it was defensive back Ardell Johnson who was the star of the game. He almost single handedly stopped the Cowboys, by making six tackles, blocking a field goal attempt, intercepting a pass and recovering the biggest fumble of the game in the fourth quarter.

With OSU on the Husker four yard line and faced with a second down situation, quarterback Charlie Weatherbie ran around right end, was stopped just short of the goal, and fumbled. Johnson recovered the ball to seal the victory.

Last year's game was no exception to the rule of tough Husker-Cowboy football games. Nebraska jumped off to a 21-7 first half lead and it appeared that the Huskers might win easily.

However, nobody told Oklahoma State and the 'Pokes roared back for 13, third quarter points, while holding Nebraska to seven.

With the score NU 28-OSU 20 late in the fourth, OSU tried to score three times from inside the Husker five yard line in the last minute of play, but thanks to fine defensive plays by Chuck Jones and a host of other Black Shirts, Nebraska held on to win.

Today's game won't be any different than the last three, so before the excitement starts, Huskers everywhere welcome Coach Stanley and his staff, along with the Cowboy players and their fine fans, to Memorial Stadium.

Foundation Gift Supports Feeding Trials

The close cooperation between the beef industry and University of Nebraska researchers is reflected in an experimental program of converting high moisture corn into beef which, if successful, will mean reduced costs for Nebraska's farmer-feeders.

Representing industry are the LeDioyt Land Company of Omaha, which announced a $10,000 grant to the University of Nebraska Foundation plus the planned purchase of up to 1,000 head of cattle for use in the feeding trials, and the Brown Land Company, which will provide its feed lot facilities at O'Neill.

The Animal Science Department of the University's Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources will furnish the technical knowledge.

Snapped Corn

The trials will involve feeding processed snapped corn during the 150-day finishing phase. Dr.

Paul Q. Guyer, NU beef specialist, said the process could result in reduced costs of harvesting, storage and feeding of corn by the farmer-feeder.

By using processed snapped high moisture corn, part of the kernels need not be ground during harvesting, and the corn can be stored in horizontal silos.

LeDioyt to Buy Feed

Glenn LeDioyt, president of the LeDioyt Land Company, said the 1,000 head of cattle will come from the Rex Ranch of Grant County and the LeDioyt Company will buy the feed and pay the normal feeding charge.

The Brown Land Company, owned by the Brown Family of Providence, R.I., will make the O'Neill feed lot facilities available and keep detailed records as directed by the University researchers.

5-Section Farm

The O'Neill feed lot has a capacity of feeding between 3,500 and 5,000 head and is located on a large farm of 20 quarters, irrigated by center pivot.

Mr. LeDioyt said only a portion of the $10,000 grant will be used by the Animal Science Department to directly finance its part in the feeding trials. The remainder can be used for other high priority research needs at the discretion of the department, he said.

"The grant is recognition for the great agricultural economy that the University of Nebraska researchers have provided the people of Nebraska," he explained.

In 1975, the LeDioyt Company contributed $10,000 to the Foundation for support of a research project now being conducted by the Department of Agronomy concerning use and disposal of paunch manure in soil for corn production.

University Extension Division Offers

—Arson investigators meeting in Grand Island;

—An American teenager studying in Bucaramanga, Colombia;

—40 dentists returning to the UN-L campus for instruction on new techniques.

Each shares something with the others—participation in programs made possible through the University of Nebraska-Lincoln's Extension Division.

The Extension Division is the University's arm which delivers continuing education to the citizens of Nebraska, and beyond. The 73,000 individuals who took part in the 1,250 programs presented by the Extension Division last year live in all 50 states and in 130 foreign countries.

This fall, the Extension Division arranged for UN-L professors to teach about 35 credit field classes at 17 locations across the state. An additional 200 credit classes are conducted on campus through the Division's Evening Class Program.

More than 30,000 people will participate in non-credit educational conferences and institutes during the year at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education in Lincoln, which is operated by the Extension Division. People from all walks of life took part in the "Communiversities" series of special interest courses at the Center—courses ranging from "The Art of Bonsai," to "Dollars and Sense," to "Starting Your Own Business."

Other groups met for professional improvement, vocational training and avocational interests at outstate locations sponsored by the Extension Division.

The University Extension Division is well-known throughout the world for its high school and college independent study by correspondence program, which last year recorded over 16,000 enrollments. A complete high school curriculum of 170 courses is offered for individuals who for a variety of reasons are not able to get or complete their high school education in a traditional manner. College courses for credit number 140, and are open to individuals anywhere who wish to pursue their college education according to their own schedule.

More than one million individuals viewed educational films from the Division's Instructional Media Center, which maintains the state's largest instructional film collection containing over 7,000 prints.

The Extension Division, in cooperation with the State University of Nebraska (SUN) operates three area offices to represent the University in their geographic areas in developing and administional processes to be utilized in meeting educational needs.

Under special grants, the Extension Division is presenting 160 "Nebraska Forum on Human Values" discussion programs throughout the state; conducting a "Development of a Model Community-Wide Approach to Housing" in western Nebraska, and initiating educational programs that meet the specialized needs of service workers involved in the foster child placement process in the state.

Thus, the Extension Division serves the continuing education needs of Nebraska and its citizens. In coming weeks, its programs will serve

—125 tax consultants in Ogallala;

—160 assessors at the Nebraska Center;

—80 individuals on a tour of the Nelson Gallery of Art in Kansas City.

And the list goes on.

Distinguished Alumni Return To Campus

Ten University of Nebraska alumni returned to the campus this week to participate in Master's Week.

An annual event sponsored by Innocents and Mortar Boards, senior honoraries, in cooperation with the Chancellor's Office and the Student Alumni Board, Masters Week is designed to give students and faculty an opportunity to meet and talk with distinguished alumni of the University.

The 1976 Masters, who are attending today's football game are:

—Dr. M. Anne Campbell of Lincoln, Commissioner of Education for the State of Nebraska. A former national president of the American Association of University Women and former director of public affairs for the NU System, the 1969 UN-L graduate has received many honors, including the title of "Key Nebraska Woman Administrator" for 1976 from the Nebraska Assn. of Women Administrators.

—Dr. Edwin M. Collins, professor of community dentistry and dental clinic coordinator at the University of Texas at San Antonio. The 1949 graduate of the NU College of Dentistry is a Fellow in the American College of Dentists and a member of the American Academy of Oral Pathology, the American Academy of Periodontology and the American Dental Assn.

—Doris M. Eby, senior department head of food and nutrition at Better Homes and Gardens Publishing Group in Des Moines. A 1957 NU graduate, Ms. Eby has been active in the American Home Economics Assn. and Home Economists in Business.

—Edward T. Foster of Omaha, board chairman of Foster-Smetana Co., Western Engineering Co. and Nicholas Industries, Inc. A 1928 NU graduate, Foster was named "Engineer of the Year" by the Nebraska Society of Professional Engineers in 1968, and is a Fellow of the American Society of Civil Engineers and a member of the National Society of Professional Engineers, the Omaha Engineers Club and the Associated General Contractors of America.

—Roy F. Proffitt, professor of law and director of Law School Relations at the University of Michigan. The 1940 NU graduate has also taught at Nebraska and the University of Missouri and has been actively involved with bar and legislative committees in criminal law revision in both Missouri and Michigan.

—Gail Rock, free-lance film critic and author from New York City. She is best known for her four children's novels, based on her childhood in Valley, Neb.—"The House Without A Christmas Tree," "The Thanksgiving Treasure," "The Easter Promise" and "Addie and the King of Hearts." All four have appeared as dramatic specials on CBS-TV, and this fall the book versions, already available in hardcover, are being published in paperback.

—Thomas C. Sorensen, general partner of Advest Co., an investment brokerage and banking firm in the Northeastern United States. The 1947 NU grad and native Lincolnite formerly served as deputy director of the U.S. Information Agency. His career in public affairs included duties in Beirut, Cairo, Iraq, Moscow, Japan, Great Britain and Germany. A recognized expert on Middle Eastern affairs, Sorensen continues to write and speak on Mid-east oil and political problems.

—David L. Thomas, senior vice presidency of finance at Dunn & Bradstreet Co., Inc. in New York City. A 1949 NU graduate, Thomas formerly served as controller for McCall Corp. (1959-1961) and controller for General Dynamics Corp. (1961-1971).

—Dr. William G. Tomek, professor of agricultural economics at Cornell University. A native of Table Rock, Tomek received his bachelors degree from NU in 1956 and his masters in 1957. At Cornell, his research is related mainly to the analysis of agricultural prices, and he is currently teaching graduate-level courses in agricultural marketing and in econometrics.

—Jan Douthit Weir, principal and creative director of Mefford Weir, Inc., a 4A advertising agency in Denver and Albuquerque. Ms. Weir is also chairman of the board of directors of Fontana Media Corp., an FM radio company she founded in 1973. The 1945 NU grad and Lincoln native was the first woman "Executive-in-Residence" at the University of Colorado College of Business. She received the American Advertising Federation's "1975 Woman of the Year" award.

Band To Present Variety Of Musical Beats

Today's Cornhusker Marching Band half-time presentation begins with a stylish entrance to the powerful music from Ben Hur, "Parade of the Charioteers."

A contrast of marching follows with a characterization of Henry Mancini's "Pink Panther." The Band then maneuvers to a Glen Campbell hit, "Rhinestone Cowboy."

Driving, syncopated rhythms are featured in "Pack Rat," followed by the show finale set to the music of Richard Rodgers' "Slaughter on 10th Avenue."

Is YOUR Insurance Agent
listed at the right? If not,
contact a listed agency
near you!

A Big I independent insurance agent is a professional insurance person who serves YOU first. The Big I agent represents more than one insurance company and is equipped to shop the marketplace for the BEST insurance program tailored to YOUR needs. The professional competence of a Big I agent is demonstrated by membership in a professional organization which demands the highest order of integrity and competence: the Nebraska Association of Independent Insurance Agents (also known as the Independent Insurance Agents of Nebraska).

It costs no more to go first class!

If YOUR agent is on the list, you are to be congratulated. You have engaged the finest talent available, to handle your car, home, and business insurance needs.

If your agent is not on the list, — well, don't you think it is time?

THE EARLY YEARS OF COLLEGE FOOTBALL

by Joe Concannon, Boston GLOBE

The official celebration was in 1969. It was designated as "The Centennial Year" of college football by the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. The Post Office issued a commemorative stamp. Newspaper accounts said a "planned antiwar demonstration" was set if Richard Nixon came to a "Centennial Game" in New Brunswick, N.J. and 20,000 showed up for a parade.

That was the historical tribute, a genuflection to the beginning of the game, yet there is very strong evidence to suggest that the game played between Princeton and Rutgers on an empty lot on Nov. 6, 1869 was not really football. Rather it was soccer and, in the sense of accuracy, wasn't the first football game played five years later? In Cambridge, Mass.

It was between Harvard and McGill University of Montreal. It was known as "Boston football" and it took its roots from the tradition established by the Oneida Football Club of Boston, the first organized football club in the United States. The surviving members of the club erected a monument to its brief history (1862-65) on the Boston Common in 1925.

If the nation at large observed 1869 as the starting date of college football, the people at Harvard had some fun two years ago, recreating the game it had played 100 years before and referring to the 1974 season as "The Real Football Centennial." Decals were put out, stories were written and it passed quietly into history.

Harold M. Kennard, a football historian, wrote a letter to Harvard publicist Dave Matthews in 1973. "I have been agitating, to little avail, for over 35 years," he said, "to get football sports writers to drop the myth of that Princeton-Rutgers soccer game in 1869 as being the first game of American football. More power to you."

At the time, there was no response from the good people at Rutgers and Princeton. They simply let Harvard have its say, refusing to change their records. What most recent histories say is that Princeton and Rutgers set the stage, but the origins of the game as we know it today began on that day in Cambridge, Mass. when Harvard met McGill.

"The year 1874," wrote Allison Danzig in his The History of American Football in 1956, "was a momentous one in American football. McGill University, through its captain David Roger, challenged Harvard to a game. Lacking games with other colleges because of the difference in its rules,

"On Saturday, November 6th, Princeton sent twenty-five picked men to play our twenty-five a match game of foot-ball," it read. "The strangers came up in the 10 o'clock train, and brought a good number of backers with them. After dinner, and a stroll around the town, during which stroll

6-4. "To describe the varying fortunes of the match," observed The Targum, "game by game, would be a waste of labor, for every game was like the one before." In a 1971 book, Oh, How They Played the Game, Danzig noted, that game "was soccer, or association football, with twenty-five men to a side. Running with the ball and passing it by hand were strictly forbidden."

Here Danzig elaborated. "Soccer was the game played everywhere on the American campus in 1869, except at one college. It might have remained the only football, or at least THE game of football, played to this day had it not been for the fact that at Harvard they had come up with a variety of football that had elements of rugby."

After 1869, Columbia and Yale entered the sport and, on Oct. 19, 1873, the four schools met in New York to formulate the first set of intercollegiate rules. Harvard declined an invitation, preferring to stick with its own rules and, a year later, met McGill in the two games that ultimately would lead to a more universal adoption of these rules.

"Football historians," reads a section in the official book put out by the National Football Foundation in 1971, "believe that Harvard's decision was the most important and far-reaching in the annals of American football. Had the Crimson accepted the invitation and gone along with Yale, Princeton, Columbia and Rutgers in the adoption of the code they eventually drafted in New York, the American game, as we know it today, never would have evolved and soccer would have been established as the No. 1 college sport."

"Intercollegiate soccer," wrote historian Tim Cohane in the Harvard Football News, "had been played by Princeton and Rutgers since 1869, and Columbia since 1870. Yale also took up soccer in 1873." He talked about the meeting in New York. "The Cantabrigians realized that any 'compromise' of games with four soccer-playing colleges probably would retain very little 'Boston football.'"

The following year, in 1875, Harvard issued a challenge to Yale to play a game under a compromise set of rules. Adopting "concessionary rules," the two met on Nov. 13, 1875. It was mostly a game of rugby. Har-

The 1894 Yale team at leisure.

Harvard welcomed the proposal and its captain, Henry Grant, accepted.

"McGill played rugby and Harvard played a game in which a player was permitted to run with the ball if pursued, but which was largely soccer. It was agreed that the first of the two games at Cambridge should be under Harvard rules. Harvard won it, three goals to none.

"The second game was played under McGill rules, in three half-hour sections, and resulted in a scoreless tie. This was the first intercollegiate Rugby game played in the United States and the first Rugby match of any kind in this country, unless it actually was Rugby that Yale and Eton players played (1873), which was not likely."

Go back, first, to Nov. 6, 1868, the day when Princeton traveled to Rutgers. Even an account in One Hundred Years of Princeton Football, published in 1969, admitted the game "bore no resemblance to the football of today. It was, essentially, soccer." Yet, the student newspaper at Rutgers, The Targum, carried an account of it.

billiards received a good deal of attention, the crowds began to assemble at the ball ground, which, for the benefit of the ignorant, we would say is a lot about a hundred yards wide, extending from College Avenue to Sicard Street.

"Previous to calling the game, the ground presented an animated picture. Grim-looking players were silently stripping, each one surrounded by sympathizing friends, while around each of the captains was a little crowd, intent upon giving advice, and saying as much as possible.

"Very few were the preliminaries, and they were quickly agreed upon. The Princeton captain, for some reason or other, gave up every point to our men without contesting one. The only material points were that Princeton gave up 'free kicks' whereby a player, when he catches the ball in the air is allowed to kick it without hindrance. On the other hand, our practice of 'babying' the ball on the start was discarded, and the ball was mounted, in every instance, by a vigorous 'long kick.'"

Whatever, Rutgers won that game,

BIG-8 BASKETBALL

1976~77

by Bob Hartzell, Tulsa TRIBUNE

...A PREVIEW

It has been more than 30 years since teams from Kansas have been kept away from the Big Eight Conference basketball championship for two consecutive years. Missouri and five other Big Eight teams have a chance to snap that jinx this season. And such a chance does not come along often.

Only four times in the last 20 years has the Big Eight Conference basketball season opened without either Kansas or Kansas State as a defending champion. This is the fourth time, and there is a strong possibility—if not a likelihood—that Missouri will be able to prove that the fourth time is a charm.

The defending champion Tigers return four starters and two others who saw extensive duty. They rank as the pre-season favorites.

However, Missouri lost All-American Willie Smith, the conference's leading scorer with a 24.6 average. Smith's contribution to the Tigers' surge to the NCAA Midwest Regional finals (before losing to national runnerup Michigan) was more than just points. He also was the Tigers' Mr. Clutch.

Whether the Tigers can replace Smith's penchant for winning close games may be more important than whether they can make up for the points he scored.

Kansas State, the conference runnerup and a National Invitation Tournament entry last season, also lost its leading scorer in Chuckie Williams (20.7). But the Wildcats enter the season with the conference's top returning guard in Mike Evans, a junior who averaged 18 points a game last season.

If anyone is to unseat Missouri as the conference champion, it should be Kansas State, which returns a second starter in 6'-5" forward Larry Dassie and three other players who saw extensive duty.

A couple of other teams stand outside chances of winning the title, and one of them—not surprisingly—is from Kansas.

The Jayhawks did not have a senior on last season's .500 club, although it did lose junior Norm Cook, who applied as a hardship case for the National Basketball Association draft.

Rookie Oklahoma coach Dave Bliss took a young team, tied for fourth in the conference and won coach of the year honors. A similar year of progress could throw the Sooners into the thick of the title race this season.

Nebraska, the conference's third-place team of last season, suffered heavy graduation losses and will have trouble avoiding the second division. Oklahoma State hopes to avoid the second division with the aid of three returning starters.

Colorado and Iowa State, seventh and eighth a year ago, have hired new coaches—Bill Blair of Virginia Military at Colorado and Lynn Nance of Kentucky at Iowa State—and hope to have success similar to that experienced by Bliss at Oklahoma.

But they all may find themselves chasing coach Norm Stewart's Tigers again.

Jim Kennedy (6'-6" senior) and Kim Anderson (6'-8" senior) are the leading returnees for Missouri. The two forwards averaged 16.1 and 14.3 points per game, respectively, last season. Also back is leading rebounder Stan Ray, a 6'-9" sophomore center. Jeff Versatile Ken Koenings leads the Jayhawks.

Currie, a 6'-3" senior guard, is the fourth returning starter.

James Clabon, a 6'-8" senior forward-center, saw extensive duty late last season. And Scott Sims, a 6'-1" senior guard, is experienced.

Stewart also has the option of moving Kennedy to guard, a move which would give the Tigers a starting lineup of 6'-3", 6'-6", 6'-8", 6'-8" and 6'-9".

If more help is needed, it may be available in the form of newcomer Clay Johnson, a second-team junior college All-American who averaged 24.6 points and 20.8 rebounds last season as a 6'-4" guard-forward for Penn Valley. The Tigers also signed high schoolers Larry Drew (6'-1") of Kansas City Wyandotte and Robert Roundtree (6'-2") of Kennett, Mo.

Kansas State has potential, but much may depend on how 6'-11" junior center Jerry Black responds to off-season eye surgery. An experienced letterman, Black injured his eye in an accident last spring and his status is questionable.

Evans, the 6'-1" super guard, and Dassie, a 6'-5" senior who played well after adjusting as a junior college transfer, will be the key figures.

Also back are 6'-4" senior forward Dan Droge and 6'-5" senior forward Darryl Winston, both of whom saw ex-

Introducing the dollar stretchers.

Your SAFECO agent is a good person to know. Because he can show you more than 136 ways to stretch your insurance dollar. Here are some examples.

1. Cut costs on disability insurance by increasing the elimination period. The longer the elimination period (time lag between the beginning of a disability and the first income payment), the lower the premiums.

2. Keep your valuables in a safe place. You may be able to lower fine arts, stamp and coin collection insurance rates if you store the items in bank vaults, home vaults or fire-proof safes.

3. Go for a bigger hunk of life. Many insurance companies offer discounts for larger policies. So avoid buying a bundle of small policies when one might do.

4. Don't make the wrong move with moving insurance. Before you buy a special, and often expensive, policy sold by moving companies, check your homeowners. You may already be covered.

5. Check your life policy before you fly. If you have adequate life insurance coverage, you won't have to buy expensive airline trip transit policies.

6. Unless you own an oil well, don't invest in endowment policies. For most people, endowment policy premiums are too high for the value received. Many would be better off with a straight life policy.

7. Be a boating expert. Some companies will give you up to a 10% discount if you complete an approved power-boat handling course.

8. Increase deductibles on your business insurance. You could save up to 18% on your building insurance premium by carrying a $1,000 deductible.

9. Keep an extra set of accounts receivable. If you keep a duplicate set at another location, you could save up to 50% on the accounts receivable premium.

10. Check into I.R.A. retirement plans. They provide a good way to buy your life insurance through tax-deductible dollars.

11. Don't get stranded by your auto insurance. Check to see if your comprehensive provides transportation expenses if your car is stolen. You may be able to save yourself some car fare.

12. Go for the big deductibles. You could save a lot on your premiums if you carry a $200 collision deductible rather than a $100 deductible—and take a $50 deductible on comprehensive. And any loss over $100 is deductible from your income tax.

13. Lock the barn door before the horse gets away. Do everything you can to avoid losses to your home. Check for hazards. Install alarms. Buy good locks, and use them. Keep fire department, police and emergency medical aid numbers handy. It's the best way in the world to fight rising insurance costs.

14. Don't look for bargains in health insurance. A cheap policy just may not be adequate. And this is one place where it's better to have too much than too little.

15. Buy insurance from an agent who's not just a company man. A local independent agent, who represents many companies and sells many different insurance plans, may be able to get you a better deal. Because independents are free to sell you what's best for you. And get you the best value to boot.

If you think these tips make sense, see the people who wrote the book. SAFECO has put together a handy, 36-page consumer guide that tells you how to get more for your insurance dollar. It contains the 15 tips you've just read. Plus 121 more. For this handy guide, write to SAFECO at SAFECO Plaza, Seattle 98185.

vard agreed to some soccer rules, Yale conceded to play 15 men to a side. The next year, Yale switched to the Harvard rules.

"There were many points of difference," wrote William R. Tyler in the Harvard Advocate, "in Harvard's Boston Game from the rugby game. It was eminently a kicking, as distinguished from a running and tackling, game . . . I would question if there were three men in college who had ever seen the egg-shaped ball. A drop kick was unknown."

There were a couple of Princeton men in New Haven to see the first Harvard-Yale game in 1875 and, after returning to campus, argued for an adoption of the different rules. Sentiment was strong to retain the rules drawn up in 1873, but eventually Princeton voted to change and invited representatives from Harvard, Yale and Columbia to a meeting in Springfield, Mass.

" . . . for the purpose of adopting a uniform system of rules and considering the advisability of forming an Intercollegiate Football Association. It is generally understood that all the colleges have adopted the Rugby Union rules, but that each is playing them in some slight variations." Rugby rules, permitting running, were adopted and soccer rules, favoring kicking, were the result—America had a new game.

Oddly, wrote Harold Kaese of the Globe in a recent history of football at Tufts, "The only football game Harvard ever lost was to Tufts." That was on June 4, 1875, when Tufts, a small college in nearby Medford, beat Harvard with one touchdown and one goal to none. "To purists," wrote Kaese, "the first Tufts-Harvard game was the first real football played between American colleges." Oddly, as well, most histories of the game completely omit it.

"We borrowed horses and a hay-wagon from the farmer who cared for the college cows," said Eugene Bowen, the Tufts manager, "and traveled to Cambridge with urchins calling us farmers and hayseeds. There were approximately a hundred students at Tufts, and it was a job to persuade twenty-two to have practice."

"They played briskly," noted the reporter in the Globe the next day "and ere long five or six Tufts men found themselves laid on their backs so violently that they imagined it was evening by the stars they saw." The Boston Transcript said, "The Harvards did not watch their movements as closely as they should have, consequently Tufts made the first and only goal."

Out of it, too, came the first excuse. The Harvard Advocate blamed it on an insufficient Spring practice and overemphasis on sports such as baseball and rowing. Now, Harvard and the Ivy League, do not tolerate ANY spring practice. In the formative years, there were seven games in the Spring. In the Fall, Harvard traveled to Medford and, on a field where cows grazed, avenged its loss to Tufts.

On Nov. 6, 1875, a "Second Eleven" at Tufts went to Lewiston, Maine for a game against Bates. "The game," wrote Kaese, "had been arranged between Charles Cushman, a veteran of the first encounter with Harvard, and his friend Frank Briggs, who had been convinced to form a team at Bates. It provided the state of Maine with its first taste of intercollegiate football."

"To Harvard," wrote Alonzo Stags in the 1944 Football Guide, "goes the credit for taking up Rugby and playing it consistently in 1874, 1875 and 1876. To Princeton belongs the credit of initiating the calling of the convention. To Yale, belongs the credit of persistently contending that the number of players on a team be fixed at eleven instead of fifteen and finally winning her point in 1880."

The man generally recognized as "The Father of American Football" was a Yale freshman in 1876 named Walter Camp. Although he credited his 1876 captain at Yale, Eugene V. Baker, with sowing, "the first germs of real football at Yale . . . and taught me the best part of football as I know it," it was Camp who left his imprint on the game. He changed a rugby scrum to a football scrimmage and adopted the system of downs and yards to gain.

Among the other things he did was to back up the Yale plea for an 11 man team. He originated signal calling and the quarterback position. He persuaded the rules committee, on which he served for 48 years, to permit tackling below the waist and, after serving as first head coach at Yale, he moved West in 1892, to become the first head coach at Stanford.

"If Walter Camp had contributed not a single thing else to football," noted John D. McCallum and Charles Pearson in the National Football Foundation book, "his name would still rest secure on the scrimmage, perhaps the greatest single invention in any game." And, for terminology, a Princeton man, Ned Peace, turned to Camp at an 1882 convention after Camp talked about lining the field, "That will look like a gridiron," said Peace. "Precisely," replied Camp.

The changes made, the game increased in popularity, branching outside the East to Minnesota, Purdue, Notre Dame, Indiana, Virginia, Southern California, Washington.

"From 1888 on," wrote Danzig, "following the legalizing of the low tackle and the contracting of the line and backfield into a close formation, the style of football was to change radically."

Stagg, a Yale man who started coaching at Springfield, later wrote, "I am sure the push-and-pull period of offensive football started with my creation of the ends back offense in 1890." He moved to the University of Chicago. "In 1890," wrote Stagg, "when, as a student, I was given permission to organize a team at Springfield, I created a new system of play by playing both ends behind the line."

The flying wedge was introduced at Harvard, in 1892, and the revolving wedge the same year at Minnesota. Vanderbilt used the flying wedge against North Carolina and against Georgia Tech in 1892. "By 1893," wrote Stagg, "everyone was using his flying wedge and the mass principle, and the game so increased in roughness and injuries as a consequence that the season ended in an uproar, and the Army and Navy Departments abolished the service game (for 1894.)"

New York was the scene of an 1894 meeting of representatives from Harvard, Yale, Princeton and Penn to save the sport. The rules changes included outlawing the wedge and flying wedge, cutting time from 90 to 70 minutes, dividing the game into halves, prohibiting a player from touching an opponent until he had the ball and the ball had to travel 10 yards before it could be touched on a kickoff.

Kansas State coach Jack Hartman had a big recruiting year, topped by the signing of 6'-2" Tyron Ladson who was the top high school player in New York City last season, and his teammate Curtis Redding, another prep All-America. Other signees include 6'-6" Dean Danner; 6'-2" Fred Barton; and 6'-2" Lee Reimer.

Kansas, even with Cook gone to the pros, returns four starters in 6'-0" junior guard Milt Gibson, 6'-2" junior guard Clint Johnson, 6'-10" junior forward Ken Koenigs and 7'-1" sophomore center Paul Mokeski.

In addition, 6'-9" senior Donnie von Moore returns after sitting out last season with an illness.

Jayhawk coach Ted Owens also had a big recruiting year, signing juco transfers Andre Wakefield (6'-2") and John Douglas (6'-2"), brother of Leon Douglas who was 1st team All-America at Alabama. Another guard, Hasan Houston, is the Jayhawks' top prep recruit. Houston averaged 30 points a game as an All-American last season.

Another two prep stars the Jayhawks signed are 6'-7" Scott Anderson of Addison, Ill., and 6'-7" Mac Stallcup of Tulsa, Okla., Edison High.

Oklahoma returns eight players who saw at least some starting duty, including four freshmen who helped mold the Sooners into one of the conference's top teams by the end of the season.

Back for their sophomore seasons are 6'-3" Cary Carrabine, 6'-7" Kevin Jones, 6'-4" John McCullough and 6'-4" Gary Raker. They will team with such other experienced returnees as 6'-7" junior Rock McNeil (OU's leading

Bliss also experienced another good recruiting year. Newcomers—all freshmen—include 6'-10" Drew Head of Wheatridge, Colo.; 6'-8" Clifford Johnson of Jacksonville, Fla.; 6'-8" Terry Stotts of Bloomington, Ind.; 6'-4" Aaron Curry of Buffalo, N.Y.; 6'-10" Al Beal of Deerfield Beach, Fla., and 6'-3" Wayne Nelson of Dry Prong, La.

Nebraska suffered heavy graduation losses in the form of starting guards Jerry Fort and Steve Willis and center Larry Cox, but the Huskers are not without experience or talent.

Back are 6'-7" senior forward Bob Siegel and 6'-3" senior forward Alan Holder, both starters last season. In addition, 6'-1" sophomore Brian Banks, 6'-1" junior Eric Coard and 6'-7" junior Rickey Harris saw extensive playing time.

In addition, Nebraska coach Joe Cipriano recruited Jim Caldwell, a 6'-3" guard who was the nation's top junior college scorer with a 36.1 average for College of the Desert in Palm Desert, Calif., last season. Stanley "Skeeter" Jackson, a highly recruited 6'-7" forward from Seminole, Okla., Junior College, also signed with the Huskers, as well as 6'-8" center-forward Herman Jackson of Oklahoma City Southwestern Junior College.

High school stars Mark McVicker (6'-7") of Hastings, Neb., and Paul McDonald (6'-4") of Chisholm, Minn., also signed with the Huskers.

Coach Guy Strong also returns 6'-7" junior Eli Johnson as a starter, along with such lettermen as 7'-3" junior Lonnie Boeckman, 6'-1" senior Alan Rehrig and 6'-4" senior Fred Stevenson.

The Cowboys also landed two highly-sought high school stars in 6'-3" guard Jeff Rairie of Indianapolis Wood High and 6'-9" Anthony Williams of East St. Louis, as well as 6'-7" Robert Mayberry of Oklahoma City Northeast and 6'-10" Dennis Constein of Anadarko, Okla.

Colorado returns all of its starters from last season, including leading scorer Emmett Lewis, a 6'-1" sophomore who scored 15 points a game, and leading rebounders Larry Vaculik and Dave Logan. Vaculik is a 6'-9" junior and Logan a 6'-7" senior. Greg Mueller, a 6'-7" senior, also is a key for the Buffaloes. Blair's top recruit is Tony Ellis, a 6'-0" guard who was the top player for DeMatha High School in Washington, D.C.

At Iowa State, top scorers Hercle Ivy and Art Johnson are gone. But 6'-6" senior Steve Burgason, 6'-7" sophomore Jim Murphy, 6'-4" sophomore Andrew Parker and 6'-5" senior Charles Peake return.

Nance also is planning heavily on such recruits as 6'-11" Dean Uthoff of Cedar Rapids, Iowa; 6'-5" Leonard Allen of Iowa Central Junior College; 6'-1" Carlton Evans of Pratt, Kan., Junior College; 6'-8" Chuck Harmison of Ames, Iowa; 6'-4" Bruce Olliges of Louisville; 6'-6" Ricky Byrdsong of Pratt, Kan., Junior College; 6'-9" Gary DeCarlo of Des Moines, Iowa, Roosevelt High, and 6'-4" John Tillo of Sioux City, Iowa, North High.

THE LIFE OF A CORNERBACK

by Virgil Parker, Lincoln JOURNAL

A cornerback has to be quick enough to cover the pass, and also tough enough to bring down the biggest backs.

Football coaches seldom agree on anything. Defensive alignment. Offensive formations. Each has his favorite and isn't easily convinced to change or accept another philosophy as better.

But ask them what player on their squad has to be the best athlete—pound for pound—and you get a unanimous answer: the cornerback.

"The cornerback faces more crucial responsibility than anyone else on the field," one top college coach claims. "He can certainly cost a team a touchdown quicker than anybody else. Surely faster than any offensive player can be expected to get one back."

What does a coach look for in a prospective cornerback?

"Speed, agility, quickness, coordination, judgment—and then something more which you can't coach or teach," another major college mentor answers. "That's a kind of sixth-sense, the uncanny ability some kids have of knowing or just feeling what is coming next."

Another answered, "A lot of fine athletes can't master the art of playing cornerback. Particularly because of the agility that is required. He must drill on his footwork hour after hour, until it becomes second nature."

A tall cornerback is a rarity. It's because he is smaller than most of his mates that the accolade which started this article carried the "pound for pound" qualification.

"A tall person is obviously going to have longer legs," a top defensive backfield coach points out. "That means more to get tangled up when he's trying to stay with a split end who is faking and cutting four different directions at once while running his pattern."

The ideal college cornerback is from 5-10 to 6-1, the coaches contacted agreed. He has more speed, quickness and agility than any other player on the defensive unit.

"Wide receivers who are :09.5 sprinters from the track team are a dime a dozen," one coach observes. "That's who our cornerback is expected to cover. And remember, the receiver knows where he is going—cutting this way or that; pretending he's headed for the sideline only to suddenly streak downfield; or appearing to be in a 'fly' pattern straight down the field, only to put on the brakes and come back into the 'hook' zone."

"No matter what the receiver does, we—and the fan in the stands—expect the cornerback to stay with that receiver like they were glued together," the coach admits.

Obviously, that's an impossible assignment. So, defensive coaches came up with help for the cornerback in the form of the zone defense. The biggest advantage of the zone is to give the cornerback some support underneath.

As soon as the cornerback reads pass, he starts to drop with the split end. He knows that the linebacker will be falling back into the 'hook' zone. (See #1.)

#1.

The linebacker will be able to bat down a low-thrown ball. If it sails high, the cornerback will be in a position for an interception.

But the cornerback can't come up too tight on the receiver. He must guard against a 'stop and go' pattern, where the receiver might fake a 'hook', then suddenly turn again and streak on down field. (See #2.)

#2.

In this case, the cornerback must be alert for such a 'stop and go' action and be ready to immediately react and prevent the receiver from getting behind him for the 'long bomb.'

"By the same token," one coach points out, "the cornerback can't play so loose off his man (10-15 yards), that the opposition can complete a series of hook or sideline passes all the way down the field and get into scoring position."

This is where the needed qualities of a good cornerback come into play—speed and quickness plus reaction time.

Then comes the footwork and agility.

"We have our cornerback running stride for stride with a speedy receiver," a defensive backfield coach hypothesizes. "Though we teach our other defensive backs to holler 'ball' when the pass is on its downward flight toward the receiver, a good cornerback will almost sense—from the action and movement of the receiver—when the ball is coming. Then, in an instant, he must look up and locate the ball while maintaining good body control and balance."

"He must get into the best possible position to bat down or intercept the ball—all the while running at top speed. And he must take care not to unfairly bump or interfere with the receiver—thus drawing a costly penalty."

Pass interference is one penalty in which there is a great deal of judgment on the part of the official.

"When the ball is in the air, it doesn't belong to anyone," another defensive coach states strongly. "The defensive back needs to go up with the receiver with his hands and arms high in the air. If he has them up to catch or bat the ball away, he can't be accused of using his hands to push the receiver."

When does a cornerback try for a pass interception?

"Only when he is POSITIVE he will get his hands on the ball," one coach emphasizes. "Losing dressing rooms usually have a player telling his coach or the press that 'I thought I could cut in front of him and make the interception,' while explaining how the opposition completed a short sideline pass that turned into a long gainer after the catch."

"The well-run pattern and perfectly thrown ball is going to be a completion," the coach continued.

Mr and Mrs 'T' Bloody Mary mix

Vodka, gin, rum, tequila — even aquavit — never had it so good. Use 3 parts Mr and Mrs "T" Bloody Mary Mix to 1 part of any of them. Stir over ice for the perfect Bloody Mary.

Mr and Mrs 'T' Mai Tai mix

Just like you get them in The Islands. Mix 3 parts Mr and Mrs "T" Mai Tai Mix with 1 part rum in double old fashioned glass of crushed ice. Stir and garnish with pineapple stick and maraschino cherry.

Mr and Mrs 'T' Margarita mix

For that special "south of the border" taste. Mix 3 parts Mr and Mrs "T" Margarita Mix to 1 part Tequila. Mix in blender or shaker — strain into salt-rimmed glass. Float a lime slice. Ole.

Mr and Mrs 'T' Whiskey Sour mix

The versatile mix. Use whiskey, scotch, rum — whatever your choice. Mix 2 parts Mr and Mrs "T" Whiskey Sour Mix to 1 part of your favorite spirits. Shake well or stir over ice and garnish with mint, cherry or orange slice.

"You've got to accept that.

"In that case, the cornerback's job is to see that the receiver doesn't get another inch of yardage after the catch.

"For starters, his best chance to create an incompletion is to time his tackle to occur at the instant the ball touches the receiver's hands. There's a good chance that a solid hit will cause him to drop the ball.

"If that doesn't work, while making the tackle he should hang on with one arm and reach in with the free hand and try to 'strip' the ball loose. Or, at the time of the initial contact, slam one fist in there to try to punch the ball out.

"But in any case, the first objective should be a sure and firm tackle—to make sure the yards gained on the completion are all the receiver's going to get."

Some of the other major coverage problems a cornerback regularly faces include:

#3.

A running sweep to your side.

Don't be too quick to come up and lend support against the run—it may be a run-pass option. The cornerback's first responsibility is to a deep out pattern by the split end. Only after he has committed himself to a block, should the cornerback try to elude the block and come up to help out.

#4

A running sweep to the opposite side. The defensive end has chased the play from the back side. Your main responsibility is to come up, protecting to the outside against a double reverse or end-around which would be coming back your way.

#5

Quicker support against the run is called for here. Same running play your direction, but the split end has blocked against the outside linebacker. Now you come up immediately to assume his duties in stopping the run.

#6

A crossing pattern between the tight end and the flanker on your side. The cornerback takes the receiver to the outside, with the safety picking up the player coming down the middle.

#7

Almost the same play. But don't commit yourself too soon. The receivers may not actually crisscross. The cornerback still has the man to the outside.

Playing cornerback is far from a science.

"It's not a 1-2-3 thing," one coach assures. "We give him the basic rules and he has to adjust to them according to the opponent, the skills of the particular player he's covering, the position on the field, the velocity and direction of the wind, the score of the game, the down and yardage for that particular play, the time remaining—lots of factors. But don't make an error in judgment. It'll be more noticeable to the fans in the stands than the mistake made by any other player on the field."

Such is the day in the life of a cornerback.

the only binoculars
that keep fast moving
action in focus.

Try using ordinary binoculars to follow the Quarterback fading back for a pass and then switching to a wide receiver sprinting into the end zone. Can't be done. Because no matter how good your binoculars are, you miss a lot of the action if you can't change focus fast enough.

Bushnell's unique Insta-Focus ends this problem forever. With Insta-Focus you can change focus as often as you want — instantly.

Bushnell binoculars with Insta-Focus are the only binoculars made specifically for the fan of fast moving sports action. Racing, hunting, bird watching, anything. See them for yourself in better camera and sporting goods stores everywhere.

Saturday afternoon can bring excitement, festivity, and a lot of good food.

For millions of Americans, the inherent pleasure of attending a college football game is not a total experience unless it includes a Tailgate Party, hereinafter referred to as a TP. Things happen at TPs that don't happen at games. It has often been said that if the NCAA were to investigate TPs, dozens of football stadium parking lots would be placed on probation for minimum five-year periods. The TP has, in recent years, become such an integral part of the collegiate football scene in the United States and the subject of so many theses for doctoral candidates in sociology that the layman should now be fully informed of the derivation and current status of this most American of gala fetes. Thus, what follows (a complete history of the TP) is but another slice of the native memorabilia in this, our Bicentennial year.

THE NAME: From that of Amos Quincy Tailgate, a 19th Century Iowan who enjoyed picnics and invited most of the townspeople to them. On any given nice day in Ames, Iowa, one could hear the inquiry, "Goin' to a Tailgate party?"

COINAGE: Tailgate was a noun until one day in 1952 a sedan was following a station wagon too closely just outside Fort Smith, Arkansas. "He's right on our tailgate," said the wife of the driver of the station wagon, at which point the driver replied, "Yes, dear, he's tailgating us," at which point the word became either a participle or gerund, depending on where one was driving.

Then in 1957, tailgate passed into adjectival form in the parking lot of Stanford University Stadium in Palo Alto, Ca. A catering truck struck the rear of a nine-passenger station wagon as both vehicles contended for the same parking spot. Contents of the truck were spilled onto the lot's turf.

Because the driver of the truck had sustained a whiplash and was too woozy to protect his goods, wrapped sandwiches and soft drinks were pilfered and eaten stealthily in the backs of station wagons. The occupants of one station wagon had grabbed so much of the food, they had to let down their tailgate to support the booty. They pulled over to a remote area of the parking lot and invited a few friends to help them devour the largesse on the premise bologna sandwiches are not good the next day. And so 13 people gathered around the rear of the station wagon and giggled merrily, telling each other they were having a "tailgate party" and should do this more often. Which is precisely what occurred every Autumn Saturday thereafter. When one of the partying couples moved East to Princeton, N.J., in 1961, the phenomenon spread. It was only a question of time until the TP reached every campus football stadium parking lot in the land and by 1965 it had.

WHAT IS THE RIGHT TAILGATE FOR A TP: There is, of course, no perfect tailgate. Choose one most comfortable for you whatever the size, shape or opening apparatus. The recent trend toward station wagon tailgates that swing out horizontally is to be ignored.

WHO TO INVITE TO YOUR TP: Anyone with a small, foreign car clearly doesn't belong — unless they bring all the food. Anyone with children is questionable, especially anyone with small children because small children tend to jump on tailgates. Anyone with a van or motor home is debatable, for van and motor home owners tend to get pretentious and showy in a sea of station wagons. It is best that van and motor home people have a TP with their own kind in a far corner of the parking lot. Many of these larger vehicles stay there for days anyway, and it is reported that some stadium lots are now accruing extra revenue as mobile home campgrounds.

Every TP should include at least four people who know something about the football game that will follow the TP. Plus six other people who know something about football. Their presence will add a sense of relevance to the TP, give the TP meaning beyond the scope of being a mere social function. Also, it is wise to include on the guest list at least one person who knows how to get from the parking lot to the stadium following the TP; this guest, referred to at most TPs as The Pathfinder, preferably should be a person with limited drinking capacity. Elsewise, trouble looms and your guests may not reach their seats until well after halftime. Of the following week's game.

CASING THE PARKING LOT: The prudent, savvy TP giver leaves nothing to chance—especially site location. Choice sites are available through two basic methods: bribery and cunning.

Bribery: Know your parking lot attendant. Know his needs. After you give him money, give him a rope. He will then rope off an area for you and protect it with his life. Should he be run over by a van or mobile home while protecting your area, it will be necessary to give his widow money. Necessary, and proper. Also give him your leftover beverages. Many parking lot attendants—especially those who move cars—do their best work shortly after consuming leftover beverages. And always compliment them on their ability to "burn rubber." They are prideful people. Cultivate them in the off-season, for they will pretend to forget you otherwise.

Cunning: This requires an advance scouting party and signmakers. No later than two days before a game, this party must reconnoiter the lot and drive stakes into the ground at a choice site. Signs on these stakes will read: "Reserved for the Chancellor" or "The Coach Parks Here" or "Quarterback's Limousine Only; All Others Will Be Towed" or, in the case of a state university parking lot, "The Governor (and His 12 Well-Armed Security Officers) Use This Space; They Are Authorized To Fire Upon Other Vehicles." That should do it, depending on the sten-cilling ability of your signmakers. Bear in mind that some parking lot attendants pay no heed to any signs, so a bit of bribery may still have to come into play.

THE RIGHT PARKING SPOT: For practical TPerers, as near to the stadium gates as possible. However, most TPerers are not practical. (Otherwise, they'd eat at home and THEN go to the game.) And so spots nearest "aisles" are the most preferred, permitting TPerers to see and be seen. A proper TP must include elements of ostentation, although on sunny Autumn days one risks the spewing of dust onto one's tailgate. Still, dust—according to TP hosts—is looked upon as "part of the charm and tradition" of TPing. Guests soon learn to enjoy dust; the good guest will bring his or her own bag of dust. Most supermarkets sell dust bags on the same shelves as dust cloths.

ADVISORY: Turn off all motors before beginning a TP . . . unless your menu includes carbon monoxide fumes. Some do find them tasty.

WHAT TO SERVE: In early days, TPs featured simple fare: potato chips, pretzels, olives, pickles, radishes, egg salad sandwiches with or without sliced tomatoes, large jugs of root beer and butterscotch cupcakes. Eventually, that basic menu underwent severe changes on the premise that anybody can make a halfway decent egg salad sandwich. It became pointless to have a TP if your TP was just like everybody else's TP.

The evolution of the TP menu passed through the stages of turkey dinners (for games played during Thanksgiving week) to cold buffets (which included an assortment of 38 types of cold cuts, 12 varieties of cheeses and four types of bread) to "bring your own pointed sticks and let's have a shish-ke-bab bash" bill of fare.

Currently, the best TPs fall into two categories: on-site cooking and catering.

On-site cooking: Double, self-cleaning ovens with transistorized batteries and nuclear-powered rotisseries are now on the market for purchase or rental or lease/option. At good terms. These ovens reject all food save filets and chateaubriand. Salads are mixed in tailgate-sized tureens while the TP is in progress. After your guests finish their liquid refreshments, suggest they "help themselves to the salad bar and then let me know when you're ready for your filet." The smart host will pass among his guests with a pepper grinder. The smart guest will tell his host what to do with the pepper grinder.

Catering: Special TP catering services have popped up all over the country in the past two seasons. Here is how they operate: TP guests remain in their vehicles. The caterer walks up to the vehicle and politely asks the occupants to roll down their windows. He then attaches to the windows a small metal tray holding a cheeseburger, french fried potatoes and a chocolate milk shake. There are no menu variations, although the caterer will bring more catsup if asked. When the occupants have finished dining, they are instructed to turn on their headlights. The caterer then removes the tray and gives his bill to the TP host. In some cases, the caterer places trays on the tailgates; this is termed al fresco catering and is popular in warmer sections of the country or in sections of the country where people

BIG 8 PRESIDENTS & CHANCELLORS

• DR. DUANE ACKER, President, Kansas State University. Dr. Duane Acker held major administrative posts and taught at five of the nation's major land-grant universities (including Kansas State University) before becoming president of Kansas State University in July of 1975.

Acker, an ardent sports fan, has taken an active role in the development of K-State's athletic program.

A native of Atlantic, Iowa, he earned B.S. and M.S. degrees from Iowa State University and was on the animal husbandry faculty at Oklahoma State University while working toward a Ph.D., which he received in 1957.

He taught at Iowa State (1955-1962) and served as associate dean of agriculture and director of resident instruction at Kansas State (1962-1966). He then served administrative terms at South Dakota State and the University of Nebraska.

• DR. ARCHIE DYKES, Chancellor, University of Kansas. Dr. Archie Dykes became the University of Kansas' 13th chancellor July 1, 1973. Since that time, KU has remained among the nation's top universities both in education and athletics.

Dr. Dykes, 45, came to KU from the University of Tennessee where he had served since 1971 as chancellor. He received both his B.A. and Master's degrees from East Tennessee State University and his doctorate from the University of Tennessee.

Dr. Dykes and his wife Nancy, have two sons, John, 20, and Tom, 18.

• ROLAND C. RAUTENSTRAUS, President, University of Colorado. Roland C. Rautenstrauss has been associated with the University of Colorado as a student, faculty member and administrator the past 30 years. He was named temporary University president in April, 1974, and was unanimously reaffirmed by the CU Board of Regents as the school's top administrator Jan. 14, 1975.

Prior to his appointment as the University's 12th president, he was vice president for university relations, a position he had held four years, and CU's first executive vice president, a position to which he was named in April, 1973.

A Gothenburg, Neb. native, he obtained a B.A. degree in civil engineering (1946) and a master's degree (1949) from CU. The 51-year-old Rautenstrauss had joined the CU faculty in 1946 as a part-time civil engineering instructor after serving in the Naval Reserve (1942-1946). He was also a football offensive lineman at Colorado during his collegiate undergrad days.

• W. ROBERT PARKS, President, Iowa State University. Since 1965 when Dr. W. Robert Parks became president, Iowa State University has matured and expanded its offerings in education while maintaining an international reputation in agriculture, home economics, en-

made a wine just for when family & friends sat down together.

Nothing's changed.

After 80 years, the same reason people still go to a football game is the same reason people still gather over a jug of Cribari wine...
to sit down together and enjoy!

Enjoy Cribari red, white, rosé and — if your side won — champagne.
Before the game, at home watching the game on TV, in the post game celebration.
And in the old-fashioned jug.

know what al fresco means. The use of a caterer also is popular among those who like to give TPs but don't wish to mingle with their guests.

LIQUID REFRESHMENTS: Conditioned by the applicability of state laws and the knack of sequestering oddly-shaped thermoses. The safest TPs are preceded by house parties, known as HPs.

ADVISORY: Pre-TP HPs are inadvisable in connection with Army, Navy and Air Force Academy games unless one wishes to risk the wrath of MPs, SPs and APs.

THE FUTURE: Where is the TP going? And how will it get there? Many sociologists, including concession stand operators and vendors holding degrees, are inclined to believe the TP is faddish, a mere symbol of these easy, carefree times, a boredom-reliever that is bound to be replaced by a hot dog and a beer once the austere 1980s arrive. A further hindrance to TP growth is the fact many campuses are now replacing parking lots with classroom buildings, a totally innovative academic enterprise.

On the other hand, culinary devotees believe the TP has yet to see its finest hour. In fact, some gastronomes are convinced that by 1987 TPs will take place inside the stadium and the games themselves in the parking lot.

There has been talk in NFL circles that the best TPs will be drafted to add a touch of class to the professional genre. NFL TPs, as they are now constituted, consist only of orange or tomato juice and Russian spirits.

Some college athletic directors are taking the middle course (no, not the salad). They see TPs as a means of subsidizing their hard-hit budgets or as a vehicle for financing women-person varsity sports.

This subsidization would take the form—according to one athletic director—of putting a per-plate tax on each TP. Athletes would make the collections at the start of each TP, thus adding a touch of celebrity to the TP.

"What's a party anyway without names?" said this athletic director.

The TP, in sum, seems to be a permanent part of the American college football scene, much as the American college football scene has managed to become a permanent part of the TP.

The TP, then, is here to stay. Now if you will turn on your headlights, we will remove the tray.

THE COLLEGIATE HALL OF FAME

Headquartered in New York, the National Football Hall of Fame strives to honor the great men of college football and inspire the nation's youth to excel on the athletic field and in the classroom. To achieve its aims, the Foundation seeks to establish the true concept of football and gain recognition of its significant role in the preservation and advancement of our way of life.

As part of the Foundation's honors program, the Hall of Fame enshrines those college players and coaches whose deeds and lives during and after their playing days have been exemplary and inspiring. Each year, through a national referral network, new members to the Hall are inducted and the list grows.

Below are the players in the Hall of Fame as of July, 1976.

Dr. Parks is the first social scientist to become the University's chief administrative officer. Under his leadership Iowa State's identity in academic excellence has been complemented by strong intercollegiate athletic programs.

He continued the pursuit of his predecessor, James H. Hilton, in building the Iowa State Center.

• ROY A. YOUNG, Chancellor, Nebraska University. Nebraska's new Chancellor, Dr. Roy A. Young, is impressed immensely "by the breadth of academic programs on the Lincoln campuses." He is well-acquainted with the Midwest and has a keen appreciation for agriculture, Nebraska's largest industry.

Dr. Young comes to Nebraska after a long tenure at Oregon State University where he experienced many assignments. From 1970 he served as the Vice President for research and graduate studies on the Corvallis campus.

Dr. Young received his B.S. degree from New Mexico State and holds M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in plant pathology from Iowa State University. The author of more than 60 publications, he is a fellow of the American Association of the Advancement of Science and the American Phytopathological Society. The New Chevrolet

The handwriting was on the wall.

It clearly said that the time had come for a new kind of 6-passenger car. One that would use fuel and space more sparingly, yet still provide the kind of room and ride you've found so comfortable and comforting in our popular full-size Chevys of the past.

The car is here.

It's called The New Chevrolet.

More head room

The New Chevrolet stands a little taller than last year's full-size Chevy, which perhaps explains why it looks so very proud in profile.

Inside, there's a little more clearance for heads and hats and hairdos, both in the back seat and up front.

A new acoustical ceiling helps keep things nice and quiet.

More leg room

We've increased the rear seat leg room by an inch in The Sedan (below) and by nearly two inches in The Coupe.

It will make a significant difference in riding comfort, especially on trips.

The straight-up styling of the car makes it easier to climb into and out of.

More trunk room

The trunk is truly enormous, more than a cubic foot bigger than last year, with a nice flat floor that makes it easy to arrange things.

It's one of many pleasant surprises awaiting you in The New Chevrolet.

More efficient

The New Chevrolet is, by design, a very lean but very strong automobile, with not a trace of flab anywhere on its beautiful body, chassis or frame.

And it pays off at the gas pump.

In EPA tests, The New Chevrolet is rated at 22 mpg highway, 17 mpg city with the new standard Six, auto. trans. and 2.73 axle. Remember, EPA figures are estimates. The actual mileage you get will vary depending on the type of driving you do, your driving habits, your car's condition and available equipment. (In California, EPA mileage figures are lower.)

The New Chevrolet.

We made it right for the times without making it wrong for the people.

You're going to love it.

 Chevrolet

Now that's more like it.

The 1977 Caprice Classic Sedan.

FOR A GAME PLAN THAT'S A SURE WINNER,

"JOIN YOUR CREDIT UNION

IT'S WHERE YOU BELONG!!"

At the credit union, you're a member, not just another customer. You and the other members actually own the credit union and it is run by people you are associated with — through work, church or your community. You get low interest loans and high dividends on savings because everyone pools their money to help each other. It is not a profit-oriented organization, but one that is founded on the principle of "PEOPLE HELPING PEOPLE".

If you're not a member of a credit union now, or if you're with a company that doesn't have a credit union, call or write us. We will help you find a credit union to join or give you information and assistance in starting one.

Cornhusker Wheel Club

Automobile dealers in Nebraska are contributing a large measure of help to the University of Nebraska athletic program through the loan of courtesy cars.

Like other programs which are a part of the Cornhusker booster group activities, this project enables the Nebraska Athletic Department to make greater use of its funds.

These sports-minded dealers around the state have earned a debt of gratitude from the University of Nebraska Athletic Department. They are an important part of the "team" that includes players, coaches, administration, faculty, staff, students, alumni, Husker Educational Award group, Touchdown Club, Extra Point Club, Beef Club and the courtesy car program.

Wanek's drivers really get around..

WHAT KEEPS WANEEKS TRUCKS ROLLING??

... the desire to satisfy their customers regardless of where they live. First and foremost, Wanek's maintain an ever changing stock of top brand Furniture, Carpeting, Appliances, Color TV & Stereo in a fantastic selection that covers over 3 acres, to assure all of their customers of finding exactly what they're looking for. Wanek's even added a Showcase of 45 rooms, individually decorated, right down to the ashtrays, so that their customers could discover new decorating ideas, totally free of charge! And of course, with Wanek's vast capacity for volume buying and selling, their customers can select from the finest manufacturers such as Henredon, Heritage, Drexel, Century, White, Thomasville, Hibriten, Broyhill, La-Z-Boy, & all major brands in carpeting, appliances & TV for a great deal less than they would usually pay. That's why people find decorating their home from Wanek's of Crete a delightful experience. That in itself would seem enough... however, Wanek's go one step further, they realize that independent trucking companies can sometimes result in serious problems, so Wanek's bought their own fleet of trucks and employed their own drivers to make certain that your furniture is uncrated, set up in your home and in perfect condition before they leave. If we've forgotten anything, please let us know and we'll do our best to accommodate you, as our desire is and has always been, to satisfy our customers, regardless of where they live.

Energy Research And Development Center New to NU

By BRUCE SCOTT
Graduate Assistant
Office of University Information

In order to better determine the energy needs of the state of Nebraska, to catalog its resources and help preserve and develop what energy is here, the University of Nebraska-Lincoln has established an Energy Research and Development Center.

Acting director of the Center, Dr. Donald Edwards, associate dean of the College of Engineering and Technology, said the Center is an attempt to coordinate the energy research being done at NU with the other energy related industries in the state.

"We're not a policy group, like the State Energy Office, but rather a research and development group," he said. "We will work closely with the State Energy Office in preparation of a State Energy Plan."

Edwards said that universities are better suited to do energy research than the state because the school has research laboratories and faculty expertise to match.

He said a six-man executive committee would work closely with him in program development. In addition, an Energy Resource Faculty of 35 professors from the University of Nebraska-

Lincoln and the University of Nebraska at Omaha will help to communicate information on energy programs to the faculty in their respective disciplines.

An advisory committee of representatives from industry, government, higher and secondary education, utilities and consumers will review programs and give general advice to the Director and executive committee.

The Center was established in July of this year upon the suggestion of Chancellor Roy A. Young. Most of the work so far has been organizational, Edwards said.

"We're trying to find out the current status of energy related research, development and training, including curriculum, at the University," Edwards said. "Then we will have a better idea what type of energy programs to pursue."

To this end a form has been sent to all colleges at NU. When returned, it will give the Center an idea of the different energy related programs now being funded by various granting agencies.

Although officially no energy related proposals have been sent out to granting agencies through the Center, several ideas are in the making, Edwards said.

Among these are:

—The establishment at NU of an energy testing center. Items tested would be consumer related products, like solar energy devices. The Center would probably not be mandated by law, but build instead around integrity.

—A second generation solar house to be owned and operated by the University of Nebraska to allow research on energy saving devices and appliances.

—Advising the NU Central Planning Committee on energy savings and solar applications to University buildings.

—The use of agricultural wastes, mainly crop residues, for on farm energy generation. Some research is already underway for using crop residues in powering irrigation systems.

—Researching and developing ways of processing coal for conversion into other usable forms of energy.

—A conference on the energy related transportation needs of Nebraska and the region, with the ultimate goal of solving Nebraska's transportation needs.

Among other things...

Once again, TV service technicians give these opinions about Zenith:

We're proud of our record of building dependable quality products. But if it should ever happen that a Zenith product doesn't live up to your expectations—or if you want details of the service technicians' survey—write to the Vice President, Consumer Affairs, Zenith Radio Corporation, 1900 N. Austin Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60639.

NEBRASKA SPELLS "SPORTSMANSHIP"

The University of Nebraska is known and respected all over the nation for its red-attired fans, as well as its football teams.

Nebraska fans also have a nation-wide reputation for good sportsmanship, at home and away.

"Big League"—that's the way Nebraska teams and fans have acquitted themselves in past seasons, and that's the same goal for 1976.

The University of Nebraska urges all 1976 fans to continue this fine tradition of sportsmanship by extending courtesy to the visiting teams and officials.

All of us on the Cornhusker Staff salute our fans as the greatest in the nation and thank you for your support and sportsmanship.

Yours for Nebraska,

Huskers and Cowboys Ready For Another Tough One

By DON BRYANT
Sports Information Director

Hang on to your hats, because when Tom Osborne's Nebraska Cornhuskers meet Jim Stanley's Oklahoma State Cowboys, almost anything can happen, and it usually does.

Osborne has a 2-0-1 mark against the 'Pokes and all three games have produced some of the most exciting Big 8 college football ever played.

Take 1973 for example, when the Huskers and O-State played to a 17-17 tie at Stillwater. Late in the fourth quarter, with the score 17-17, Nebraska had marched to the Cowboy six inch line and was faced with a fourth down. Going for the score, full-back Tony Davis was stopped just short of the goal and the Cornhuskers attempt failed. But the game was far from over.

Because the Cowboys broke out of the hole on a 47-yard run by quarterback Brent Blackman and had a shot at a field goal.

But on the next play, Blackman was thrown for a six-yard loss by defensive end Steve Manstedt to preserve the tie.

Nebraska's 7-3 win over Oklahoma State in 1974 at Lincoln was another NU-OSU classic. The Huskers only score came in the third quarter on a Davis run and from then on, the Black Shirts held the limelight.

Individually, it was defensive back Ardell Johnson who was the star of the game. He almost single handedly stopped the Cowboys, by making six tackles, blocking a field goal attempt, intercepting a pass and recovering the biggest fumble of the game in the fourth quarter.

With OSU on the Husker four yard line and faced with a second down situation, quarterback Charlie Weatherbie ran around right end, was stopped just short of the goal, and fumbled. Johnson recovered the ball to seal the victory.

Last year's game was no exception to the rule of tough Husker-Cowboy football games. Nebraska jumped off to a 21-7 first half lead and it appeared that the Huskers might win easily.

However, nobody told Oklahoma State and the 'Pokes roared back for 13, third quarter points, while holding Nebraska to seven.

With the score NU 28-OSU 20 late in the fourth, OSU tried to score three times from inside the Husker five yard line in the last minute of play, but thanks to fine defensive plays by Chuck Jones and a host of other Black Shirts, Nebraska held on to win.

Today's game won't be any different than the last three, so before the excitement starts, Huskers everywhere welcome Coach Stanley and his staff, along with the Cowboy players and their fine fans, to Memorial Stadium.

Foundation Gift Supports Feeding Trials

The close cooperation between the beef industry and University of Nebraska researchers is reflected in an experimental program of converting high moisture corn into beef which, if successful, will mean reduced costs for Nebraska's farmer-feeders.

Representing industry are the LeDioyt Land Company of Omaha, which announced a $10,000 grant to the University of Nebraska Foundation plus the planned purchase of up to 1,000 head of cattle for use in the feeding trials, and the Brown Land Company, which will provide its feed lot facilities at O'Neill.

The Animal Science Department of the University's Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources will furnish the technical knowledge.

Snapped Corn

The trials will involve feeding processed snapped corn during the 150-day finishing phase. Dr.

Paul Q. Guyer, NU beef specialist, said the process could result in reduced costs of harvesting, storage and feeding of corn by the farmer-feeder.

By using processed snapped high moisture corn, part of the kernels need not be ground during harvesting, and the corn can be stored in horizontal silos.

LeDioyt to Buy Feed

Glenn LeDioyt, president of the LeDioyt Land Company, said the 1,000 head of cattle will come from the Rex Ranch of Grant County and the LeDioyt Company will buy the feed and pay the normal feeding charge.

The Brown Land Company, owned by the Brown Family of Providence, R.I., will make the O'Neill feed lot facilities available and keep detailed records as directed by the University researchers.

5-Section Farm

The O'Neill feed lot has a capacity of feeding between 3,500 and 5,000 head and is located on a large farm of 20 quarters, irrigated by center pivot.

Mr. LeDioyt said only a portion of the $10,000 grant will be used by the Animal Science Department to directly finance its part in the feeding trials. The remainder can be used for other high priority research needs at the discretion of the department, he said.

"The grant is recognition for the great agricultural economy that the University of Nebraska researchers have provided the people of Nebraska," he explained.

In 1975, the LeDioyt Company contributed $10,000 to the Foundation for support of a research project now being conducted by the Department of Agronomy concerning use and disposal of paunch manure in soil for corn production.

University Extension Division Offers

—Arson investigators meeting in Grand Island;

—An American teenager studying in Bucaramanga, Colombia;

—40 dentists returning to the UN-L campus for instruction on new techniques.

Each shares something with the others—participation in programs made possible through the University of Nebraska-Lincoln's Extension Division.

The Extension Division is the University's arm which delivers continuing education to the citizens of Nebraska, and beyond. The 73,000 individuals who took part in the 1,250 programs presented by the Extension Division last year live in all 50 states and in 130 foreign countries.

This fall, the Extension Division arranged for UN-L professors to teach about 35 credit field classes at 17 locations across the state. An additional 200 credit classes are conducted on campus through the Division's Evening Class Program.

More than 30,000 people will participate in non-credit educational conferences and institutes during the year at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education in Lincoln, which is operated by the Extension Division. People from all walks of life took part in the "Communiversity" series of special interest courses at the Center—courses ranging from "The Art of Bonsai," to "Dollars and Sense," to "Starting Your Own Business."

Other groups met for professional improvement, vocational training and avocational interests at outstate locations sponsored by the Extension Division.

The University Extension Division is well-known throughout the world for its high school and college independent study by correspondence program, which last year recorded over 16,000 enrollments. A complete high school curriculum of 170 courses is offered for individuals who for a variety of reasons are not able to get or complete their high school education in a traditional manner. College courses for credit number 140, and are open to individuals anywhere who wish to pursue their college education according to their own schedule.

More than one million individuals viewed educational films from the Division's Instructional Media Center, which maintains the state's largest instructional film collection containing over 7,000 prints.

The Extension Division, in cooperation with the State University of Nebraska (SUN) operates three area offices to represent the University in their geographic areas in developing and adminis-

Under special grants, the Extension Division is presenting 160 "Nebraska Forum on Human Values" discussion programs throughout the state; conducting a "Development of a Model Community-Wide Approach to Housing" in western Nebraska, and initiating educational programs that meet the specialized needs of service workers involved in the foster child placement process in the state.

Thus, the Extension Division serves the continuing education needs of Nebraska and its citizens. In coming weeks, its programs will serve

—125 tax consultants in Ogallala;

—160 assessors at the Nebraska Center;

—80 individuals on a tour of the Nelson Gallery of Art in Kansas City.

Distinguished Alumni Return To Campus

Ten University of Nebraska alumni returned to the campus this week to participate in Master's Week.

An annual event sponsored by Innocents and Mortar Boards, senior honoraries, in cooperation with the Chancellor's Office and the Student Alumni Board, Masters Week is designed to give students and faculty an opportunity to meet and talk with distinguished alumni of the University.

The 1976 Masters, who are attending today's football game are:

—Dr. M. Anne Campbell of Lincoln, Commissioner of Education for the State of Nebraska. A former national president of the American Association of University Women and former director of public affairs for the NU System, the 1969 UN-L graduate has received many honors, including the title of "Key Nebraska Woman Administrator" for 1976 from the Nebraska Assn. of Women Administrators.

—Dr. Edwin M. Collins, professor of community dentistry and dental clinic coordinator at the University of Texas at San Antonio. The 1949 graduate of the NU College of Dentistry is a Fellow in the American College of Dentists and a member of the American Academy of Oral Pathology, the American Academy of Periodontology and the American Dental Assn.

—Doris M. Eby, senior department head of food and nutrition at Better Homes and Gardens Publishing Group in Des Moines. A 1957 NU graduate, Ms. Eby has been active in the American Home Economics Assn. and Home Economists in Business.

—Edward T. Foster of Omaha, board chairman of Foster-Smetana Co., Western Engineering Co. and Nicholas Industries, Inc. A 1928 NU graduate, Foster was named "Engineer of the Year" by the Nebraska Society of Professional Engineers in 1968, and is a Fellow of the American Society of Civil Engineers and a member of the National Society of Professional Engineers, the Omaha Engineers Club and the Associated General Contractors of America.

—Roy F. Proffitt, professor of law and director of Law School Relations at the University of Michigan. The 1940 NU graduate has also taught at Nebraska and the University of Missouri and has been actively involved with bar and legislative committees in criminal law revision in both Missouri and Michigan.

—Gail Rock, free-lance film critic and author from New York City. She is best known for her four children's novels, based on her childhood in Valley, Neb.—"The House Without A Christmas Tree," "The Thanksgiving Treasure," "The Easter Promise" and "Addie and the King of Hearts." All four have appeared as dramatic specials on CBS-TV, and this fall the book versions, already available in hardcover, are being published in paperback.

—Thomas C. Sorensen, general partner of Advest Co., an investment brokerage and banking firm in the Northeastern United States. The 1947 NU grad and native Lincolnite formerly served as deputy director of the U.S. Information Agency. His career in public affairs included duties in Beirut, Cairo, Iraq, Moscow, Japan, Great Britain and Germany. A recognized expert on Middle Eastern affairs, Sorensen continues to write and speak on Mid-east oil and political problems.

—David L. Thomas, senior vice presidency of finance at Dunn & Bradstreet Co., Inc. in New York City. A 1949 NU graduate, Thomas formerly served as controller for McCall Corp. (1959-1961) and controller for General Dynamics Corp. (1961-1971).

—Dr. William G. Tomek, professor of agricultural economics at Cornell University. A native of Table Rock, Tomek received his bachelors degree from NU in 1956 and his masters in 1957. At Cornell, his research is related mainly to the analysis of agricultural prices, and he is currently teaching graduate-level courses in agricultural marketing and in econometrics.

—Jan Douthit Weir, principal and creative director of Mefford Weir, Inc., a 4A advertising agency in Denver and Albuquerque. Ms. Weir is also chairman of the board of directors of Fontana Media Corp., an FM radio company she founded in 1973. The 1945 NU grad and Lincoln native was the first woman "Executive-in-Residence" at the University of Colorado College of Business. She received the American Advertising Federation's "1975 Woman of the Year" award.

THE TOUCHDOWN CLUB OF NEBRASKA

One of the groups most instrumental in helping the University of Nebraska Athletic Department grow in the field of inter-collegiate sports is the Nebraska Touchdown Club.

Contributions from TD Club members have enabled the Cornhuskers to build a fine grant-in-aid program and continued support from the Touchdown Club, and groups like the Husker Achievement Awards, the Extra Point Club, and the Cornhusker Beef Club, will insure that the Nebraska Cornhuskers will always hold a prominent place in the college sports world.

The University of Nebraska Athletic Department salutes the many members of the Touchdown Club and takes this opportunity to say a sincere "Thank You."

Band To Present Variety Of Musical Beats

Today's Cornhusker Marching Band half-time presentation begins with a stylish entrance to the powerful music from Ben Hur, "Parade of the Charioteers."

A contrast of marching follows with a characterization of Henry Mancini's "Pink Panther." The Band then maneuvers to a Glen Campbell hit, "Rhinestone Cowboy."

Driving, syncopated rhythms are featured in "Pack Rat," followed by the show finale set to the music of Richard Rodgers' "Slaughter on 10th Avenue."

Roberts Di-gest.TM A delicious new milk that helps you digest the food you eat.

Is YOUR Insurance Agent
listed at the right? If not,
contact a listed agency
near you!

A Big I independent insurance agent is a professional insurance person who serves YOU first. The Big I agent represents more than one insurance company and is equipped to shop the marketplace for the BEST insurance program tailored to YOUR needs. The professional competence of a Big I agent is demonstrated by membership in a professional organization which demands the highest order of integrity and competence: the Nebraska Association of Independent Insurance Agents (also known as the Independent Insurance Agents of Nebraska).

It costs no more to go first class!

If YOUR agent is on the list, you are to be congratulated. You have engaged the finest talent available, to handle your car, home, and business insurance needs.

If your agent is not on the list, — well, don't you think it is time?

Sometimes, it can make all the difference.

BankAmericard. It's safer to carry than cash. Plus, it's ever so handy to have when unexpected expenses arise — on week-end outings — vacations — even around your home. It's also great to have when you want to take advantage of special sales at stores everywhere. And, it can be the perfect answer to solving a temporary squeeze on the family budget.

BankAmericard. You don't have to use it all the time. But sometimes, just having it makes all of the difference.

THE EARLY YEARS OF COLLEGE FOOTBALL

by Joe Concannon, Boston GLOBE

The official celebration was in 1969. It was designated as "The Centennial Year" of college football by the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. The Post Office issued a commemorative stamp. Newspaper accounts said a "planned antiwar demonstration" was set if Richard Nixon came to a "Centennial Game" in New Brunswick, N.J. and 20,000 showed up for a parade.

That was the historical tribute, a genuflection to the beginning of the game, yet there is very strong evidence to suggest that the game played between Princeton and Rutgers on an empty lot on Nov. 6, 1869 was not really football. Rather it was soccer and, in the sense of accuracy, wasn't the first football game played five years later? In Cambridge, Mass.

It was between Harvard and McGill University of Montreal. It was known as "Boston football" and it took its roots from the tradition established by the Oneida Football Club of Boston, the first organized football club in the United States. The surviving members of the club erected a monument to its brief history (1862-65) on the Boston Common in 1925.

If the nation at large observed 1869 as the starting date of college football, the people at Harvard had some fun two years ago, recreating the game it had played 100 years before and referring to the 1974 season as "The Real Football Centennial." Decals were put out, stories were written and it passed quietly into history.

Harold M. Kennard, a football historian, wrote a letter to Harvard publicist Dave Matthews in 1973. "I have been agitating, to little avail, for over 35 years," he said, "to get football sports writers to drop the myth of that Princeton-Rutgers soccer game in 1869 as being the first game of American football. More power to you."

At the time, there was no response from the good people at Rutgers and Princeton. They simply let Harvard have its say, refusing to change their records. What most recent histories say is that Princeton and Rutgers set the stage, but the origins of the game as we know it today began on that day in Cambridge, Mass. when Harvard met McGill.

"The year 1874," wrote Allison Danzig in his The History of American Football in 1956, "was a momentous one in American football. McGill University, through its captain David Roger, challenged Harvard to a game. Lacking games with other colleges because of the difference in its rules,

"On Saturday, November 6th, Princeton sent twenty-five picked men to play our twenty-five a match game of foot-ball," it read. "The strangers came up in the 10 o'clock train, and brought a good number of backers with them. After dinner, and a stroll around the town, during which stroll

6-4. "To describe the varying fortunes of the match," observed The Targum, "game by game, would be a waste of labor, for every game was like the one before." In a 1971 book, Oh, How They Played the Game, Danzig noted, that game "was soccer, or association football, with twenty-five men to a side. Running with the ball and passing it by hand were strictly forbidden."

Here Danzig elaborated. "Soccer was the game played everywhere on the American campus in 1869, except at one college. It might have remained the only football, or at least THE game of football, played to this day had it not been for the fact that at Harvard they had come up with a variety of football that had elements of rugby."

After 1869, Columbia and Yale entered the sport and, on Oct. 19, 1873, the four schools met in New York to formulate the first set of intercollegiate rules. Harvard declined an invitation, preferring to stick with its own rules and, a year later, met McGill in the two games that ultimately would lead to a more universal adoption of these rules.

"Football historians," reads a section in the official book put out by the National Football Foundation in 1971, "believe that Harvard's decision was the most important and far-reaching in the annals of American football. Had the Crimson accepted the invitation and gone along with Yale, Princeton, Columbia and Rutgers in the adoption of the code they eventually drafted in New York, the American game, as we know it today, never would have evolved and soccer would have been established as the No. 1 college sport."

"Intercollegiate soccer," wrote historian Tim Cohane in the Harvard Football News, "had been played by Princeton and Rutgers since 1869, and Columbia since 1870. Yale also took up soccer in 1873." He talked about the meeting in New York. "The Cantabrigians realized that any 'compromise' of games with four soccer-playing colleges probably would retain very little 'Boston football.'"

The following year, in 1875, Harvard issued a challenge to Yale to play a game under a compromise set of rules. Adopting "concessionary rules," the two met on Nov. 13, 1875. It was mostly a game of rugby. Har-

The 1894 Yale team at leisure.

Harvard welcomed the proposal and its captain, Henry Grant, accepted.

"McGill played rugby and Harvard played a game in which a player was permitted to run with the ball if pursued, but which was largely soccer. It was agreed that the first of the two games at Cambridge should be under Harvard rules. Harvard won it, three goals to none.

"The second game was played under McGill rules, in three half-hour sections, and resulted in a scoreless tie. This was the first intercollegiate Rugby game played in the United States and the first Rugby match of any kind in this country, unless it actually was Rugby that Yale and Eton players played (1873), which was not likely."

Go back, first, to Nov. 6, 1868, the day when Princeton traveled to Rutgers. Even an account in One Hundred Years of Princeton Football, published in 1969, admitted the game "bore no resemblance to the football of today. It was, essentially, soccer." Yet, the student newspaper at Rutgers, The Targum, carried an account of it.

billiards received a good deal of attention, the crowds began to assemble at the ball ground, which, for the benefit of the ignorant, we would say is a lot about a hundred yards wide, extending from College Avenue to Sicard Street.

"Previous to calling the game, the ground presented an animated picture. Grim-looking players were silently stripping, each one surrounded by sympathizing friends, while around each of the captains was a little crowd, intent upon giving advice, and saying as much as possible.

"Very few were the preliminaries, and they were quickly agreed upon. The Princeton captain, for some reason or other, gave up every point to our men without contesting one. The only material points were that Princeton gave up 'free kicks' whereby a player, when he catches the ball in the air is allowed to kick it without hindrance. On the other hand, our practice of 'babying' the ball on the start was discarded, and the ball was mounted, in every instance, by a vigorous 'long kick.'"

Whatever, Rutgers won that game,

BIG-8 BASKETBALL

1976~77

...A PREVIEW

It has been more than 30 years since teams from Kansas have been kept away from the Big Eight Conference basketball championship for two consecutive years. Missouri and five other Big Eight teams have a chance to snap that jinx this season. And such a chance does not come along often.

Only four times in the last 20 years has the Big Eight Conference basketball season opened without either Kansas or Kansas State as a defending champion. This is the fourth time, and there is a strong possibility—if not a likelihood—that Missouri will be able to prove that the fourth time is a charm.

The defending champion Tigers return four starters and two others who saw extensive duty. They rank as the pre-season favorites.

However, Missouri lost All-American Willie Smith, the conference's leading scorer with a 24.6 average. Smith's contribution to the Tigers' surge to the NCAA Midwest Regional finals (before losing to national runnerup Michigan) was more than just points. He also was the Tigers' Mr. Clutch.

Whether the Tigers can replace Smith's penchant for winning close games may be more important than whether they can make up for the points he scored.

Kansas State, the conference runnerup and a National Invitation Tournament entry last season, also lost its leading scorer in Chuckie Williams (20.7). But the Wildcats enter the season with the conference's top returning guard in Mike Evans, a junior who averaged 18 points a game last season.

If anyone is to unseat Missouri as the conference champion, it should be Kansas State, which returns a second starter in 6'-5" forward Larry Dassie and three other players who saw extensive duty.

A couple of other teams stand outside chances of winning the title, and one of them—not surprisingly—is from Kansas.

The Jayhawks did not have a senior

on last season's .500 club, although it did lose junior Norm Cook, who applied as a hardship case for the National Basketball Association draft.

Rookie Oklahoma coach Dave Bliss took a young team, tied for fourth in the conference and won coach of the year honors. A similar year of progress could throw the Sooners into the thick of the title race this season.

Nebraska, the conference's third-place team of last season, suffered heavy graduation losses and will have trouble avoiding the second division. Oklahoma State hopes to avoid the second division with the aid of three returning starters.

Colorado and Iowa State, seventh and eighth a year ago, have hired new coaches—Bill Blair of Virginia Military at Colorado and Lynn Nance of Kentucky at Iowa State—and hope to have success similar to that experienced by Bliss at Oklahoma.

But they all may find themselves chasing coach Norm Stewart's Tigers again.

Jim Kennedy (6'-6" senior) and Kim Anderson (6'-8" senior) are the leading returnees for Missouri. The two forwards averaged 16.1 and 14.3 points per game, respectively, last season. Also back is leading rebounder Stan Ray, a 6'-9" sophomore center. Jeff Versatile Ken Koenings leads the Jayhawks.

Currie, a 6'-3" senior guard, is the fourth returning starter.

James Clabon, a 6'-8" senior forward-center, saw extensive duty late last season. And Scott Sims, a 6'-1" senior guard, is experienced.

Stewart also has the option of moving Kennedy to guard, a move which would give the Tigers a starting lineup of 6'-3", 6'-6", 6'-8", 6'-8" and 6'-9".

If more help is needed, it may be available in the form of newcomer Clay Johnson, a second-team junior college All-American who averaged 24.6 points and 20.8 rebounds last season as a 6'-4" guard-forward for Penn Valley. The Tigers also signed high schoolers Larry Drew (6'-1") of Kansas City Wyandotte and Robert Roundtree (6'-2") of Kennett, Mo.

Kansas State has potential, but much may depend on how 6'-11" junior center Jerry Black responds to off-season eye surgery. An experienced letterman, Black injured his eye in an accident last spring and his status is questionable.

Evans, the 6'-1" super guard, and Dassie, a 6'-5" senior who played well after adjusting as a junior college transfer, will be the key figures.

Also back are 6'-4" senior forward Dan Droge and 6'-5" senior forward Darryl Winston, both of whom saw ex-

Introducing the dollar stretchers.

Your SAFECO agent is a good person to know. Because he can show you more than 136 ways to stretch your insurance dollar. Here are some examples.

1. Cut costs on disability insurance by increasing the elimination period. The longer the elimination period (time lag between the beginning of a disability and the first income payment), the lower the premiums.

2. Keep your valuables in a safe place. You may be able to lower fine arts, stamp and coin collection insurance rates if you store the items in bank vaults, home vaults or fire-proof safes.

3. Go for a bigger hunk of life. Many insurance companies offer discounts for larger policies. So avoid buying a bundle of small policies when one might do.

4. Don't make the wrong move with moving insurance. Before you buy a special, and often expensive, policy sold by moving companies, check your homeowners. You may already be covered.

5. Check your life policy before you fly. If you have adequate life insurance coverage, you won't have to buy expensive airline trip transit policies.

6. Unless you own an oil well, don't invest in endowment policies. For most people, endowment policy premiums are too high for the value received. Many would be better off with a straight life policy.

7. Be a boating expert. Some companies will give you up to a 10% discount if you complete an approved power-boat handling course.

8. Increase deductibles on your business insurance. You could save up to 18% on your building insurance premium by carrying a $1,000 deductible.

9. Keep an extra set of accounts receivable. If you keep a duplicate set at another location, you could save up to 50% on the accounts receivable premium.

10. Check into I.R.A. retirement plans. They provide a good way to buy your life insurance through tax-deductible dollars.

11. Don't get stranded by your auto insurance. Check to see if your comprehensive provides transportation expenses if your car is stolen. You may be able to save yourself some car fare.

12. Go for the big deductibles. You could save a lot on your premiums if you carry a $200 collision deductible rather than a $100 deductible—and take a $50 deductible on comprehensive. And any loss over $100 is deductible from your income tax.

13. Lock the barn door before the horse gets away. Do everything you can to avoid losses to your home. Check for hazards. Install alarms. Buy good locks, and use them. Keep fire department, police and emergency medical aid numbers handy. It's the best way in the world to fight rising insurance costs.

14. Don't look for bargains in health insurance. A cheap policy just may not be adequate. And this is one place where it's better to have too much than too little.

15. Buy insurance from an agent who's not just a company man. A local independent agent, who represents many companies and sells many different insurance plans, may be able to get you a better deal. Because independents are free to sell you what's best for you. And get you the best value to boot.

If you think these tips make sense, see the people who wrote the book. SAFECO has put together a handy, 36-page consumer guide that tells you how to get more for your insurance dollar. It contains the 15 tips you've just read. Plus 121 more. For this handy guide, write to SAFECO at SAFECO Plaza, Seattle 98185.

vard agreed to some soccer rules, Yale conceded to play 15 men to a side. The next year, Yale switched to the Harvard rules.

"There were many points of difference," wrote William R. Tyler in the Harvard Advocate, "in Harvard's Boston Game from the rugby game. It was eminently a kicking, as distinguished from a running and tackling, game . . . I would question if there were three men in college who had ever seen the egg-shaped ball. A drop kick was unknown."

There were a couple of Princeton men in New Haven to see the first Harvard-Yale game in 1875 and, after returning to campus, argued for an adoption of the different rules. Sentiment was strong to retain the rules drawn up in 1873, but eventually Princeton voted to change and invited representatives from Harvard, Yale and Columbia to a meeting in Springfield, Mass.

" . . . for the purpose of adopting a uniform system of rules and considering the advisability of forming an Intercollegiate Football Association. It is generally understood that all the colleges have adopted the Rugby Union rules, but that each is playing them in some slight variations." Rugby rules, permitting running, were adopted and soccer rules, favoring kicking, were the result—America had a new game.

Oddly, wrote Harold Kaese of the Globe in a recent history of football at Tufts, "The only football game Harvard ever lost was to Tufts." That was on June 4, 1875, when Tufts, a small college in nearby Medford, beat Harvard with one touchdown and one goal to none. "To purists," wrote Kaese, "the first Tufts-Harvard game was the first real football played between American colleges." Oddly, as well, most histories of the game completely omit it.

"We borrowed horses and a hay-wagon from the farmer who cared for the college cows," said Eugene Bowen, the Tufts manager, "and traveled to Cambridge with urchins calling us farmers and hayseeds. There were approximately a hundred students at Tufts, and it was a job to persuade twenty-two to have practice."

"They played briskly," noted the reporter in the Globe the next day "and ere long five or six Tufts men found themselves laid on their backs so violently that they imagined it was evening by the stars they saw." The Boston Transcript said, "The Harvards did not watch their movements as closely as they should have, consequently Tufts made the first and only goal."

Out of it, too, came the first excuse. The Harvard Advocate blamed it on an insufficient Spring practice and overemphasis on sports such as baseball and rowing. Now, Harvard and the Ivy League, do not tolerate ANY spring practice. In the formative years, there were seven games in the Spring. In the Fall, Harvard traveled to Medford and, on a field where cows grazed, avenged its loss to Tufts.

On Nov. 6, 1875, a "Second Eleven" at Tufts went to Lewiston, Maine for a game against Bates. "The game," wrote Kaese, "had been arranged between Charles Cushman, a veteran of the first encounter with Harvard, and his friend Frank Briggs, who had been convinced to form a team at Bates. It provided the state of Maine with its first taste of intercollegiate football."

"To Harvard," wrote Alonzo Stags in the 1944 Football Guide, "goes the credit for taking up Rugby and playing it consistently in 1874, 1875 and 1876. To Princeton belongs the credit of initiating the calling of the convention. To Yale, belongs the credit of persistently contending that the number of players on a team be fixed at eleven instead of fifteen and finally winning her point in 1880."

The man generally recognized as "The Father of American Football" was a Yale freshman in 1876 named Walter Camp. Although he credited his 1876 captain at Yale, Eugene V. Baker, with sowing, "the first germs of real football at Yale . . . and taught me the best part of football as I know it," it was Camp who left his imprint on the game. He changed a rugby scrum to a football scrimmage and adopted the system of downs and yards to gain.

Among the other things he did was to back up the Yale plea for an 11 man team. He originated signal calling and the quarterback position. He persuaded the rules committee, on which he served for 48 years, to permit tackling below the waist and, after serving as first head coach at Yale, he moved West in 1892, to become the first head coach at Stanford.

"If Walter Camp had contributed not a single thing else to football," noted John D. McCallum and Charles Pearson in the National Football Foundation book, "his name would still rest secure on the scrimmage, perhaps the greatest single invention in any game." And, for terminology, a Princeton man, Ned Peace, turned to Camp at an 1882 convention after Camp talked about lining the field, "That will look like a gridiron," said Peace. "Precisely," replied Camp.

The changes made, the game increased in popularity, branching outside the East to Minnesota, Purdue, Notre Dame, Indiana, Virginia, Southern California, Washington.

"From 1888 on," wrote Danzig, "following the legalizing of the low tackle and the contracting of the line and backfield into a close formation, the style of football was to change radically."

Stagg, a Yale man who started coaching at Springfield, later wrote, "I am sure the push-and-pull period of offensive football started with my creation of the ends back offense in 1890." He moved to the University of Chicago. "In 1890," wrote Stagg, "when, as a student, I was given permission to organize a team at Springfield, I created a new system of play by playing both ends behind the line."

The flying wedge was introduced at Harvard, in 1892, and the revolving wedge the same year at Minnesota. Vanderbilt used the flying wedge against North Carolina and against Georgia Tech in 1892. "By 1893," wrote Stagg, "everyone was using his flying wedge and the mass principle, and the game so increased in roughness and injuries as a consequence that the season ended in an uproar, and the Army and Navy Departments abolished the service game (for 1894.)"

New York was the scene of an 1894 meeting of representatives from Harvard, Yale, Princeton and Penn to save the sport. The rules changes included outlawing the wedge and flying wedge, cutting time from 90 to 70 minutes, dividing the game into halves, prohibiting a player from touching an opponent until he had the ball and the ball had to travel 10 yards before it could be touched on a kickoff.

Kansas State coach Jack Hartman had a big recruiting year, topped by the signing of 6'-2" Tyron Ladson who was the top high school player in New York City last season, and his teammate Curtis Redding, another prep All-America. Other signees include 6'-6" Dean Danner; 6'-2" Fred Barton; and 6'-2" Lee Reimer.

Kansas, even with Cook gone to the pros, returns four starters in 6'-0" junior guard Milt Gibson, 6'-2" junior guard Clint Johnson, 6'-10" junior forward Ken Koenigs and 7'-1" sophomore center Paul Mokeski.

In addition, 6'-9" senior Donnie von Moore returns after sitting out last season with an illness.

Jayhawk coach Ted Owens also had a big recruiting year, signing juco transfers Andre Wakefield (6'-2") and John Douglas (6'-2"), brother of Leon Douglas who was 1st team All-America at Alabama. Another guard, Hasan Houston, is the Jayhawks' top prep recruit. Houston averaged 30 points a game as an All-American last season.

Another two prep stars the Jayhawks signed are 6'-7" Scott Anderson of Addison, Ill., and 6'-7" Mac Stallcup of Tulsa, Okla., Edison High.

Oklahoma returns eight players who saw at least some starting duty, including four freshmen who helped mold the Sooners into one of the conference's top teams by the end of the season.

Back for their sophomore seasons are 6'-3" Cary Carrabine, 6'-7" Kevin Jones, 6'-4" John McCullough and 6'-4" Gary Raker. They will team with such other experienced returnees as 6'-7" junior Rock McNeil (OU's leading

Bliss also experienced another good recruiting year. Newcomers—all freshmen—include 6'-10" Drew Head of Wheatridge, Colo.; 6'-8" Clifford Johnson of Jacksonville, Fla.; 6'-8" Terry Stotts of Bloomington, Ind.; 6'-4" Aaron Curry of Buffalo, N.Y.; 6'-10" Al Beal of Deerfield Beach, Fla., and 6'-3" Wayne Nelson of Dry Prong, La.

Nebraska suffered heavy graduation losses in the form of starting guards Jerry Fort and Steve Willis and center Larry Cox, but the Huskers are not without experience or talent.

Back are 6'-7" senior forward Bob Siegel and 6'-3" senior forward Alan Holder, both starters last season. In addition, 6'-1" sophomore Brian Banks, 6'-1" junior Eric Coard and 6'-7" junior Ricky Harris saw extensive playing time.

In addition, Nebraska coach Joe Cipriano recruited Jim Caldwell, a 6'-3" guard who was the nation's top junior college scorer with a 36.1 average for College of the Desert in Palm Desert, Calif., last season. Stanley "Skeeter" Jackson, a highly recruited 6'-7" forward from Seminole, Okla., Junior College, also signed with the Huskers, as well as 6'-8" center-forward Herman Jackson of Oklahoma City Southwest Junior College.

High school stars Mark McVicker (6'-7") of Hastings, Neb., and Paul McDonald (6'-4") of Chisholm, Minn., also signed with the Huskers.

Oklahoma State returns one of the conference's top guards in 5'-11" senior Ronnie Daniel, who averaged 15.8 points per game last season. Also back

Coach Guy Strong also returns 6'-7" junior Eli Johnson as a starter, along with such lettermen as 7'-3" junior Lonnie Boeckman, 6'-1" senior Alan Rehrig and 6'-4" senior Fred Stevenson.

The Cowboys also landed two highly-sought high school stars in 6'-3" guard Jeff Rairte of Indianapolis Wood High and 6'-9" Anthony Williams of East St. Louis, as well as 6'-7" Robert Mayberry of Oklahoma City Northeast and 6'-10" Dennis Constein of Anadarko, Okla.

Colorado returns all of its starters from last season, including leading scorer Emmett Lewis, a 6'-1" sophomore who scored 15 points a game, and leading rebounders Larry Vaculik and Dave Logan. Vaculik is a 6'-9" junior and Logan a 6'-7" senior. Greg Mueller, a 6'-7" senior, also is a key for the Buffaloes. Blair's top recruit is Tony Ellis, a 6'-0" guard who was the top player for DeMatha High School in Washington, D.C.

At Iowa State, top scorers Hercle Ivy and Art Johnson are gone. But 6'-6" senior Steve Burgason, 6'-7" sophomore Jim Murphy, 6'-4" sophomore Andrew Parker and 6'-5" senior Charles Peake return.

Nance also is planning heavily on such recruits as 6'-11" Dean Uthoff of Cedar Rapids, Iowa; 6'-5" Leonard Allen of Iowa Central Junior College; 6'-1" Carlton Evans of Pratt, Kan., Junior College; 6'-8" Chuck Harmison of Ames, Iowa; 6'-4" Bruce Olliges of Louisville; 6'-6" Ricky Byrdsong of Pratt, Kan., Junior College; 6'-9" Gary DeCarlo of Des Moines, Iowa, Roosevelt High, and 6'-4" John Tillo of Sioux City, Iowa, North High.

The Husker front line is bolstered by the presence of Bob Siegel.

THE LIFE OF A CORNERBACK

by Virgil Parker, Lincoln JOURNAL

A cornerback has to be quick enough to cover the pass, and also tough enough to bring down the biggest backs.

Football coaches seldom agree on anything. Defensive alignment. Offensive formations. Each has his favorite and isn't easily convinced to change or accept another philosophy as better.

But ask them what player on their squad has to be the best athlete—pound for pound—and you get a unanimous answer: the cornerback.

"The cornerback faces more crucial responsibility than anyone else on the field," one top college coach claims. "He can certainly cost a team a touchdown quicker than anybody else. Surely faster than any offensive player can be expected to get one back."

What does a coach look for in a prospective cornerback?

"Speed, agility, quickness, coordination, judgment—and then something more which you can't coach or teach," another major college mentor answers. "That's a kind of sixth-sense, the uncanny ability some kids have of knowing or just feeling what is coming next."

Another answered, "A lot of fine athletes can't master the art of playing cornerback. Particularly because of the agility that is required. He must drill on his footwork hour after hour, until it becomes second nature."

A tall cornerback is a rarity. It's because he is smaller than most of his mates that the accolade which started this article carried the "pound for pound" qualification.

"A tall person is obviously going to have longer legs," a top defensive backfield coach points out. "That means more to get tangled up when he's trying to stay with a split end who is faking and cutting four different directions at once while running his pattern."

The ideal college cornerback is from 5-10 to 6-1, the coaches contacted agreed. He has more speed, quickness and agility than any other player on the defensive unit.

"Wide receivers who are :09.5 sprinters from the track team are a dime a dozen," one coach observes. "That's who our cornerback is expected to cover. And remember, the receiver knows where he is going—cutting this way or that; pretending he's headed for the sideline only to suddenly streak downfield; or appearing to be in a 'fly' pattern straight down the field, only to put on the brakes and come back into the 'hook' zone.

"No matter what the receiver does, we—and the fan in the stands—expect the cornerback to stay with that receiver like they were glued together," the coach admits.

Obviously, that's an impossible assignment. So, defensive coaches came up with help for the cornerback in the form of the zone defense. The biggest advantage of the zone is to give the cornerback some support underneath.

As soon as the cornerback reads pass, he starts to drop with the split end. He knows that the linebacker will be falling back into the 'hook' zone. (See #1.)

#1.

The linebacker will be able to bat down a low-thrown ball. If it sails high, the cornerback will be in a position for an interception.

But the cornerback can't come up too tight on the receiver. He must guard against a 'stop and go' pattern, where the receiver might fake a 'hook', then suddenly turn again and streak on down field. (See #2.)

#2.

In this case, the cornerback must be alert for such a 'stop and go' action and be ready to immediately react and prevent the receiver from getting behind him for the 'long bomb.'

"By the same token," one coach points out, "the cornerback can't play so loose off his man (10-15 yards) that the opposition can complete a series of hook or sideline passes all the way down the field and get into scoring position."

This is where the needed qualities of a good cornerback come into play—speed and quickness plus reaction time.

Then comes the footwork and agility.

"We have our cornerback running stride for stride with a speedy receiver," a defensive backfield coach hypothesizes. "Though we teach our other defensive backs to holler 'ball' when the pass is on its downward flight toward the receiver, a good cornerback will almost sense—from the action and movement of the receiver—when the ball is coming. Then, in an instant, he must look up and locate the ball while maintaining good body control and balance.

"He must get into the best possible position to bat down or intercept the ball—all the while running at top speed. And he must take care not to unfairly bump or interfere with the receiver—thus drawing a costly penalty."

Pass interference is one penalty in which there is a great deal of judgment on the part of the official.

"When the ball is in the air, it doesn't belong to anyone," another defensive coach states strongly. "The defensive back needs to go up with the receiver with his hands and arms high in the air. If he has them up to catch or bat the ball away, he can't be accused of using his hands to push the receiver."

When does a cornerback try for a pass interception?

"Only when he is POSITIVE he will get his hands on the ball," one coach emphasizes. "Losing dressing rooms usually have a player telling his coach or the press that 'I thought I could cut in front of him and make the interception,' while explaining how the opposition completed a short sideline pass that turned into a long gainer after the catch."

"The well-run pattern and perfectly thrown ball is going to be a completion," the coach continued.

Mr and Mrs 'T' Margarita mix

For that special "south of the border" taste. Mix 3 parts Mr and Mrs "T" Margarita Mix to 1 part Tequila. Mix in blender or shaker — strain into salt-rimmed glass. Float a lime slice. Ole.

Mr and Mrs 'T' Whiskey Sour mix

The versatile mix. Use whiskey, scotch, rum — whatever your choice. Mix 2 parts Mr and Mrs "T" Whiskey Sour Mix to 1 part of your favorite spirits. Shake well or stir over ice and garnish with mint, cherry or orange slice.

"You've got to accept that.

"In that case, the cornerback's job is to see that the receiver doesn't get another inch of yardage after the catch.

"For starters, his best chance to create an incompletion is to time his tackle to occur at the instant the ball touches the receiver's hands. There's a good chance that a solid hit will cause him to drop the ball.

"If that doesn't work, while making the tackle he should hang on with one arm and reach in with the free hand and try to 'strip' the ball loose. Or, at the time of the initial contact, slam one fist in there to try to punch the ball out.

"But in any case, the first objective should be a sure and firm tackle—to make sure the yards gained on the completion are all the receiver's going to get."

Some of the other major coverage problems a cornerback regularly faces include:

#3.

A running sweep to your side.

Don't be too quick to come up and lend support against the run—it may be a run-pass option. The cornerback's first responsibility is to a deep out pattern by the split end. Only after he has committed himself to a block, should the cornerback try to elude the block and come up to help out.

#4

A running sweep to the opposite side. The defensive end has chased the play from the back side. Your main responsibility is to come up, protecting to the outside against a double reverse or end-around which would be coming back your way.

#5

Quicker support against the run is called for here. Same running play your direction, but the split end has blocked against the outside linebacker. Now you come up immediately to assume his duties in stopping the run.

#6

A crossing pattern between the tight end and the flanker on your side. The cornerback takes the receiver to the outside, with the safety picking up the player coming down the middle.

#7

Almost the same play. But don't commit yourself too soon. The receivers may not actually crisscross. The cornerback still has the man to the outside.

Playing cornerback is far from a science.

"It's not a 1-2-3 thing," one coach assures. "We give him the basic rules and he has to adjust to them according to the opponent, the skills of the particular player he's covering, the position on the field, the velocity and direction of the wind, the score of the game, the down and yardage for that particular play, the time remaining—lots of factors. But don't make an error in judgment. It'll be more noticeable to the fans in the stands than the mistake made by any other player on the field."

Such is the day in the life of a cornerback.

Insta-Focus®—
the only binoculars
that keep fast moving
action in focus.

Try using ordinary binoculars to follow the Quarterback fading back for a pass and then switching to a wide receiver sprinting into the end zone. Can't be done. Because no matter how good your binoculars are, you miss a lot of the action if you can't change focus fast enough.

Bushnell's unique Insta-Focus ends this problem forever. With Insta-Focus you can change focus as often as you want—instantly.

Bushnell binoculars with Insta-Focus are the only binoculars made specifically for the fan of fast moving sports action. Racing, hunting, bird watching, anything. Saturday afternoon can bring excitement, festivity, and a lot of good food.

For millions of Americans, the inherent pleasure of attending a college football game is not a total experience unless it includes a Tailgate Party, hereinafter referred to as a TP. Things happen at TPs that don't happen at games. It has often been said that if the NCAA were to investigate TPs, dozens of football stadium parking lots would be placed on probation for minimum five-year periods. The TP has, in recent years, become such an integral part of the collegiate football scene in the United States and the subject of so many theses for doctoral candidates in sociology that the layman should now be fully informed of the derivation and current status of this most American of gala fetes. Thus, what follows (a complete history of the TP) is but another slice of the native memorabilia in this, our Bicentennial year.

THE NAME: From that of Amos Quincy Tailgate, a 19th Century Iowan who enjoyed picnics and invited most of the townspeople to them. On any given nice day in Ames, Iowa, one could hear the inquiry, "Goin' to a Tailgate party?"

COINAGE: Tailgate was a noun until one day in 1952 a sedan was following a station wagon too closely just outside Fort Smith, Arkansas. "He's right on our tailgate," said the wife of the driver of the station wagon, at which point the driver replied, "Yes, dear, he's tailgating us," at which point the word became either a participle or gerund, depending on where one was driving.

Then in 1957, tailgate passed into adjectival form in the parking lot of Stanford University Stadium in Palo Alto, Ca. A catering truck struck the rear of a nine-passenger station wagon as both vehicles contended for the same parking spot. Contents of the truck were spilled onto the lot's turf.

Because the driver of the truck had sustained a whiplash and was too woozy to protect his goods, wrapped sandwiches and soft drinks were pilfered and eaten stealthily in the backs of station wagons. The occupants of one station wagon had grabbed so much of the food, they had to let down their tailgate to support the booty. They pulled over to a remote area of the parking lot and invited a few friends to help them devour the largesse on the premise bologna sandwiches are not good the next day. And so 13 people gathered around the rear of the station wagon and giggled merrily, telling each other they were having a "tailgate party" and should do this more often. Which is precisely what occurred every Autumn Saturday thereafter. When one of the partying couples moved East to Princeton, N.J., in 1961, the phenomenon spread. It was only a question of time until the TP reached every campus football stadium parking lot in the land and by 1965 it had.

WHAT IS THE RIGHT TAILGATE FOR A TP: There is, of course, no perfect tailgate. Choose one most comfortable for you whatever the size, shape or opening apparatus. The recent trend toward station wagon tailgates that swing out horizontally is to be ignored.

WHO TO INVITE TO YOUR TP: Anyone with a small, foreign car clearly doesn't belong — unless they bring all the food. Anyone with children is questionable, especially anyone with small children because small children tend to jump on tailgates. Anyone with a van or motor home is debatable, for van and motor home owners tend to get pretentious and showy in a sea of station wagons. It is best that van and motor home people have a TP with their own kind in a far corner of the parking lot. Many of these larger vehicles stay there for days anyway, and it is reported that some stadium lots are now accruing extra revenue as mobile home campgrounds.

Every TP should include at least four people who know something about the football game that will follow the TP. Plus six other people who know something about football. Their presence will add a sense of relevance to the TP, give the TP meaning beyond the scope of being a mere social function. Also, it is wise to include on the guest list at least one person who knows how to get from the parking lot to the stadium following the TP; this guest, referred to at most TPs as The Pathfinder, preferably should be a person with limited drinking capacity. Elsewise, trouble looms and your guests may not reach their seats until well after halftime. Of the following week's game.

CASING THE PARKING LOT: The prudent, savvy TP giver leaves nothing to chance—especially site location. Choice sites are available through two basic methods: bribery and cunning.

Bribery: Know your parking lot attendant. Know his needs. After you give him money, give him a rope. He will then rope off an area for you and protect it with his life. Should he be run over by a van or mobile home while protecting your area, it will be necessary to give his widow money. Necessary, and proper. Also give him your leftover beverages. Many parking lot attendants—especially those who move cars—do their best work shortly after consuming leftover beverages. And always compliment them on their ability to "burn rubber." They are prideful people. Cultivate them in the off-season, for they will pretend to forget you otherwise.

Cunning: This requires an advance scouting party and signmakers. No later than two days before a game, this party must reconnoiter the lot and drive stakes into the ground at a choice site. Signs on these stakes will read: "Reserved for the Chancellor" or "The Coach Parks Here" or "Quarterback's Limousine Only; All Others Will Be Towed" or, in the case of a state university parking lot, "The Governor (and His 12 Well-Armed Security Officers) Use This Space; They Are Authorized To Fire Upon Other Vehicles." That should do it, depending on the sten-cilling ability of your signmakers. Bear in mind that some parking lot attendants pay no heed to any signs, so a bit of bribery may still have to come into play.

THE RIGHT PARKING SPOT: For practical TPs, as near to the stadium gates as possible. However, most TPs are not practical. (Otherwise, they'd eat at home and THEN go to the game.) And so spots nearest "aisles" are the most preferred, permitting TPs to see and be seen. A proper TP must include elements of ostentation, although on sunny Autumn days one risks the spewing of dust onto one's tailgate. Still, dust—according to TP hosts—is looked upon as "part of the charm and tradition" of TPing. Guests soon learn to enjoy dust; the good guest will bring his or her own bag of dust. Most supermarkets sell dust bags on the same shelves as dust cloths.

ADVISORY: Turn off all motors before beginning a TP . . . unless your menu includes carbon monoxide fumes. Some do find them tasty.

WHAT TO SERVE: In early days, TPs featured simple fare: potato chips, pretzels, olives, pickles, radishes, egg salad sandwiches with or without sliced tomatoes, large jugs of root beer and butterscotch cupcakes. Eventually, that basic menu underwent severe changes on the premise that anybody can make a halfway decent egg salad sandwich. It became pointless to have a TP if your TP was just like everybody else's TP.

The evolution of the TP menu passed through the stages of turkey dinners (for games played during Thanksgiving week) to cold buffets (which included an assortment of 38 types of cold cuts, 12 varieties of cheeses and four types of bread) to "bring your own pointed sticks and let's have a shish-ke-bab bash" bill of fare.

Currently, the best TPs fall into two categories: on-site cooking and catering.

On-site cooking: Double, self-cleaning ovens with transistorized batteries and nuclear-powered rotisseries are now on the market for purchase or rental or lease/option. At good terms. These ovens reject all food save filets and chateaubriand. Salads are mixed in tailgate-sized tureens while the TP is in progress. After your guests finish their liquid refreshments, suggest they "help themselves to the salad bar and then let me know when you're ready for your filet." The smart host will pass among his guests with a pepper grinder. The smart guest will tell his host what to do with the pepper grinder.

Catering: Special TP catering services have popped up all over the country in the past two seasons. Here is how they operate: TP guests remain in their vehicles. The caterer walks up to the vehicle and politely asks the occupants to roll down their windows. He then attaches to the windows a small metal tray holding a cheeseburger, french fried potatoes and a chocolate milk shake. There are no menu variations, although the caterer will bring more catsup if asked. When the occupants have finished dining, they are instructed to turn on their headlights. The caterer then removes the tray and gives his bill to the TP host. In some cases, the caterer places trays on the tailgates; this is termed al fresco catering and is popular in warmer sections of the country or in sections of the country where people

BIG 8 PRESIDENTS & CHANCELLORS

• DR. DUANE ACKER, President, Kansas State University. Dr. Duane Acker held major administrative posts and taught at five of the nation's major land-grant universities (including Kansas State University) before becoming president of Kansas State University in July of 1975.

Acker, an ardent sports fan, has taken an active role in the development of K-State's athletic program.

A native of Atlantic, Iowa, he earned B.S. and M.S. degrees from Iowa State University and was on the animal husbandry faculty at Oklahoma State University while working toward a Ph.D., which he received in 1957.

He taught at Iowa State (1955-1962) and served as associate dean of agriculture and director of resident instruction at Kansas State (1962-1966). He then served administrative terms at South Dakota State and the University of Nebraska.

• DR. ARCHIE DYKES, Chancellor, University of Kansas. Dr. Archie Dykes became the University of Kansas' 13th chancellor July 1, 1973. Since that time, KU has remained among the nation's top universities both in education and athletics.

Dr. Dykes, 45, came to KU from the University of Tennessee where he had served since 1971 as chancellor. He received both his B.A. and Master's degrees from East Tennessee State University and his doctorate from the University of Tennessee.

Dr. Dykes and his wife Nancy, have two sons, John, 20, and Tom, 18.

• ROLAND C. RAUTENSTRAUSS, President, University of Colorado. Roland C. Rautenstrauss has been associated with the University of Colorado as a student, faculty member and administrator the past 30 years. He was named temporary University president in April, 1974, and was unanimously reaffirmed by the CU Board of Regents as the school's top administrator Jan. 14, 1975.

Prior to his appointment as the University's 12th president, he was vice president for university relations, a position he had held four years, and CU's first executive vice president, a position to which he was named in April, 1973.

A Gothenburg, Neb. native, he obtained a B.A. degree in civil engineering (1946) and a master's degree (1949) from CU. The 51-year-old Rautenstrauss had joined the CU faculty in 1946 as a part-time civil engineering instructor after serving in the Naval Reserve (1942-1946). He was also a football offensive lineman at Colorado during his collegiate undergrad days.

• W. ROBERT PARKS, President, Iowa State University. Since 1965 when Dr. W. Robert Parks became president, Iowa State University has matured and expanded its offerings in education while maintaining an international reputation in agriculture, home economics, en-

made a wine just for when family & friends sat down together.

Nothing's changed.

After 80 years, the same reason people still go to a football game is the same reason people still gather over a jug of Cribari wine...
to sit down together and enjoy!

Enjoy Cribari red, white, rosé and — if your side won — champagne.
Before the game, at home watching the game on TV, in the post game celebration.
And in the old-fashioned jug.

know what al fresco means. The use of a caterer also is popular among those who like to give TPs but don't wish to mingle with their guests.

LIQUID REFRESHMENTS: Conditioned by the applicability of state laws and the knack of sequestering oddly-shaped thermoses. The safest TPs are preceded by house parties, known as HPs.

ADVISORY: Pre-TP HPs are inadvisable in connection with Army, Navy and Air Force Academy games unless one wishes to risk the wrath of MPs, SPs and APs.

THE FUTURE: Where is the TP going? And how will it get there? Many sociologists, including concession stand operators and vendors holding degrees, are inclined to believe the TP is faddish, a mere symbol of these easy, carefree times, a boredom-reliever that is bound to be replaced by a hot dog and a beer once the austere 1980s arrive. A further hindrance to TP growth is the fact many campuses are now replacing parking lots with classroom buildings, a totally innovative academic enterprise.

On the other hand, culinary devotees believe the TP has yet to see its finest hour. In fact, some gastronomes are convinced that by 1987 TPs will take place inside the stadium and the games themselves in the parking lot.

There has been talk in NFL circles that the best TPs will be drafted to add a touch of class to the professional genre. NFL TPs, as they are now constituted, consist only of orange or tomato juice and Russian spirits.

Some college athletic directors are taking the middle course (no, not the salad). They see TPs as a means of subsidizing their hard-hit budgets or as a vehicle for financing women-person varsity sports.

This subsidization would take the form—according to one athletic director—of putting a per-plate tax on each TP. Athletes would make the collections at the start of each TP, thus adding a touch of celebrity to the TP.

"What's a party anyway without names?" said this athletic director.

The TP, in sum, seems to be a permanent part of the American college football scene, much as the American college football scene has managed to become a permanent part of the TP.

The TP, then, is here to stay. Now if you will turn on your headlights, we will remove the tray.

THE COLLEGIATE HALL OF FAME

Headquartered in New York, the National Football Hall of Fame strives to honor the great men of college football and inspire the nation's youth to excel on the athletic field and in the classroom. To achieve its aims, the Foundation seeks to establish the true concept of football and gain recognition of its significant role in the preservation and advancement of our way of life.

As part of the Foundation's honors program, the Hall of Fame enshrines those college players and coaches whose deeds and lives during and after their playing days have been exemplary and inspiring. Each year, through a national referral network, new members to the Hall are inducted and the list grows.

Below are the players in the Hall of Fame as of July, 1976.

Dr. Parks is the first social scientist to become the University's chief administrative officer. Under his leadership Iowa State's identity in academic excellence has been complemented by strong intercollegiate athletic programs.

He continued the pursuit of his predecessor, James H. Hilton, in building the Iowa State Center.

• ROY A. YOUNG, Chancellor, Nebraska University. Nebraska's new Chancellor, Dr. Roy A. Young, is impressed immensely "by the breadth of academic programs on the Lincoln campuses." He is well-acquainted with the Midwest and has a keen appreciation for agriculture, Nebraska's largest industry.

Dr. Young comes to Nebraska after a long tenure at Oregon State University where he experienced many assignments. From 1970 he served as the Vice President for research and graduate studies on the Corvallis campus.

Dr. Young received his B.S. degree from New Mexico State and holds M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in plant pathology from Iowa State University. The author of more than 60 publications, he is a fellow of the American Association of the Advancement of Science and the American Phytopathological Society. He is also a member of the American Institute of Biological Sciences, and serves on the Rockefeller Foundation Advisory Board, the National Academy of Sciences and many other humanitarian groups.

• DR. PAUL F. SHARP, President, University of Oklahoma. Dr. Paul F. Sharp became the ninth president of the University of Oklahoma on August 16, 1971.

Prior to coming to Oklahoma, Dr. Sharp was president of Drake University. Before that he was chancellor of the University of North Carolina from 1964 to 1966 and president of Hiram (Ohio) College from 1957 to 1964.

A native of Kirksville, Mo. he attended high school in Crookston, Minn. He received his B.A. degree from Phillips University in Enid, Okla. in 1939 and his doctorate from the University of Minnesota in 1947.

He was a history instructor at the University of Minnesota, an associate professor of history at Iowa State University and professor of American History at the University of Wisconsin before assuming the presidency of Hiram College.
